Borough Report Alleges University Not Paying Fair Share for Services

A Borough study released Monday examines the financial contributions made by three educational institutions in the Borough, and attempts to show that one — Princeton University — is placing a burden on taxpayers by not paying its fair share for Borough services.

The report opens with the statement that the Borough faces a compelling tax problem: more than half of its total property is tax exempt. The bulk of this tax-exempt property belongs to Princeton University.

Borough Administrator Tom Shannon, who wrote the report, was nonconfrontational as he discussed the findings. "We want to get a dialogue going with the schools to try to improve the Borough's standing," he said. "This is a partnership." He acknowledged, however, that the Borough has no leverage in this dialogue.

According to Mr. Shannon's figures, Princeton University uses a total of $571,000 in Borough services every year. Princeton Theological Seminary uses $28,000 in services, and Westminster Choir College, $15,000.

The University, the report states, paid a total of $147,000 in lieu of taxes to the Borough, leaving a service deficit of $424,000. Princeton Theological Seminary contributes $60,000 a year in lieu of taxes, far in excess of the services specified in the report. The Choir College makes no contribution in lieu of taxes.

The bulk of University expense to the Borough is in the area of police services. Mr. Shannon puts this figure at $439,000. The second largest figure is for fire protection, which he estimated at $93,000.

The Saga of Marmalade: Bane of Princeton Dogs

At age 13, when retirement and long naps by the fire are appropriate cat behavior, Marmalade, an orange long-haired tabby, was having none of it.

He had moved in August with his owners from Skillman to Castle Howard Court, where they were planning to stay with friends for a few weeks before moving to Florida.

But Marmalade quickly ran away. His owners, Mr. and Mrs. F.M. Blaicher Jr., assumed he had gone back home. They kept returning to Skillman, hoping he would be there. But no Marmalade. After placing several ads, they had no choice but to proceed with their move.

One morning last week, Mr. Blaicher picked up the October 12 issue of TOWN TOPICS, which had arrived

Township Approves Library Expansion at Current Site

Township Committee voted unanimously Monday night to approve a resolution that will allow the fund-raising feasibility study for library expansion to go forward. The resolution also alerts the Borough that issues relating to parking and the sharing of both capital and operating expenses will have to be "satisfactorily resolved" before the expansion plans are finalized.

The resolution, which states that Committee agrees that the expansion of the Princeton Public Library "shall be undertaken at the current library site," was drafted by Committeeman Stephon Frakt to resolve the impasse that has developed between Township Committee and Borough Council following their joint meeting for a public hearing on library expansion a month ago.

At that meeting, all members of Borough Council present voted to keep the library at its existing site. Township Committee, which was also missing a member and had just voted to approve an $8.47 million bond issue to build a new municipal and police facility, declined to take a vote, saying they needed time to discuss it among themselves.

The consultants who will be doing the fund-raising feasibility study that will show how much of the $12 million cost could come from the private sector and how much from municipal coffers said they could not conduct the study until the issue of whether the library would be expanded at its current site or at another site in the Township had been resolved.

Mr. Frakt's resolution takes note of this dilemma, stating that Township Committee "recognizes that the potential costs of any expansion project cannot be ascertained until a private fund-raising initiative is undertaken."

However, it goes on to say that "For purposes of assurance to potential contributors of Township Committee's commitment to financial support of an expansion, Township Committee agrees to make an initial good faith pledge of financial support in an amount equal to the pledge of the Borough."

Borough Council recently earmarked $2.273 million in its

Jane Terpstra Will Resign from Council At End of the Month

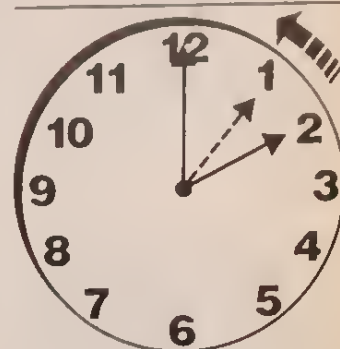

Jane Terpstra, who has served a total of more than eight years as a member of Borough Council, will resign from office effective November 1.

A resident of Maple Street, she has sold her home and will move to Princeton Township. "I looked and looked, but couldn't find a place in the Borough," she said.

Ms. Terpstra was a member of Borough Council from 1984 to 1986, and again since 1988. She is a graduate of the University of Chicago and Seton Hall University.

In 1992, when she last ran for re-election, she received the highest number of votes of any candidate in the Council race.

Terpstra

Ms. Terpstra said she will miss working with the people at Borough Hall, but that she was not moving out of the area. "So I'll still be near all the people I love to be near."

One of two female members of Council — the other is Mildred Trotman — Ms. Terpstra would have been up for re-election in November 1995. But she said she doubted very seriously whether she would have run again. "After ten years, it's time for new blood."

Her successor, who must be a Democrat, will be chosen by Borough Council, based on recommendations of the Democratic Municipal Committee. He or she would serve until January 1, 1996.

Ms. Terpstra said she has been letting people know that when it comes time to choose a replacement the choice should be another woman.

Sandra Starr, a member of the Health Commission, had expressed interest in running for Council earlier this year. Arthur Saylor, however, was selected as the Borough Council candidate.

Asked whether she might consider running for Township Committee at some point, Ms. Terpstra said, "No, no, no. Enough is enough."

Marmalade

by mail at his Florida home. Turning to page 48, he saw Marmalade, fairly glaring out of a SAVE ad.

Although declawed and in advanced middle age, Marmalade had been caught attacking a dog on Dodds Lane. The dog's owner had called the animal control officer, who picked up the cat and brought him to SAVE on September 26. (Marmalade also likes to attack deer).

Mr. Blaicher put down the paper and told his wife that Marmalade had been found. Mrs. Blaicher quickly called SAVE and told them to hold Marmalade until her daughter picked him up that afternoon.

The people at SAVE were a little confused because Marmalade had taken a liking to a Golden Retriever. They couldn't understand how this dovetailed with his attitude toward dogs. It made perfect sense, however, after Mrs. Blaicher told them the couple had a Golden Retriever.

Mrs. Blaicher also told the people at SAVE that she was making plans to fly to Princeton that weekend, pick up her errant cat, and bring him home, where, hopefully, strange dogs and deer are in shorter supply than they are in Princeton.

Services

"The theory," said Mr. Shannon, "is that if the schools weren't there, these calls wouldn't be happening. We would have a smaller police department. Twelve percent of the activity that comes into the Police Department relates to the University."

Last year, according to Mr. Shannon, Princeton University provided $51,000 in payment in lieu of taxes. This was directed toward fire protection and general assistance. In addition, $45,000 was contributed in lieu of taxes for McCarter Theatre.

The University has also made a variety of one-time contributions, such as $20,000 for an ambulance, $10,000 toward the Fire Department, and $25,000 for fire department equipment.

Mr. Shannon also factored in $40,000 a year as the amount of taxes the University pays on property that could be classified as tax-exempt. Included in this category, for example, is the president's house.

Paradoxically, while the University owns the largest amount of tax-exempt property in the Borough, it is also the Borough's largest tax payer. Last year, it paid $1.38 million in property taxes.

Mr. Shannon said one could probably go on and on about the University's significant contribution to the region, and that he wouldn't disagree. But he said that some of its contributions, such as maintaining the Dinky Station and Carnegie Lake, could be countered by not factoring into the report the cost of wear and tear on Borough roads relating to the University.

BOROUGH ADMINISTRATOR
TOM SHANNON discusses the new Borough study, "Town and Gown Support for Municipal Services."

The report recommends that, starting in 1995, Princeton University should compensate the Borough in payment or in in-kind services the amount of $424,000. A $15,000 contribution is requested from Westminster Choir College of Rider University.

It also asks that Princeton University and the Seminary compensate the Borough for their share of the cost of the revaluation of Borough properties in 1995. This amount is $34,000 for the University and $4,000 for the Seminary.

The report defines some potential in-kind services that might be provided by the University. It suggests, among other ideas, that the University might finance Borough bonds at a lower interest rate than the Borough currently pays; and that it might provide surplus electricity to reduce the cost of Borough utilities.

Meaningful Dialogue

"This is intended to create a meaningful dialogue with the University," said Mr. Shannon. "Whether the numbers are precise to the decimal point or not, I'm sure not. But it's significant enough for a dialogue to begin."

He sounded hopeful as he said the University had called after receiving the report to set up an appointment in early November.

University Director of Community and State Affairs Pamela Hersch, however, said the University was not going to have a special meeting on the topic. "We meet with the Borough regularly," she said.

Ms. Hersch also said the University was not prepared to comment on the report, and was still looking at it. "But on a general aspect, we are a tax-exempt institution because by law it is believed we are performing a very valuable function in society. In addition, we are the largest taxpayer and we feel we make a very significant contribution to the community, directly and indirectly."

"Princeton University has said they have a lot of good will," said Borough Mayor Marvin Reed on Monday afternoon. "They have shown themselves in other areas capable of changing."

Looking ahead to discussing this issue with the University, he said he never goes to any meeting feeling pessimistic, "unless it's with the Township on the Library."

GOVERNOR GOES TO A HALLOWEEN PARTY: Governor Christine Todd Whitman put in an appearance at Terhune Orchards' Halloween Party on Saturday as part of a Republican entourage that included Chuck Haytaian, candidate for the U.S. Senate. Mrs. Whitman shook hands and posed for pictures with children. Sidestepping the pumpkin with the carrot nose that had been carved in her image, she purchased a plain pumpkin and some apple crisp before departing around noon.

More Details Emerge in Concept Review Of Golf Course Proposed for Jasna Polana

The Planning Board's concept review of the proposed 18-hole championship golf course at Jasna Polana elicited some new information about how the proposed facility would be used as well as concerns from the neighbors in regard to traffic, intensity of use and adequacy of water.

The meeting was cordial, with very little comment from Planning Board members. At the outset and again in his closing remarks, Christopher Baker, attorney with McCarthy & Schatzman representing Barbara Piassecka Johnson in this matter, emphasized that the team representing Mrs. Johnson was eager to hear the views of the neighbors and be responsive to their concerns before the plans were finalized. Mr. Baker also pointed out that since this was a concept review, some technical questions would not be answered that evening.

Wayne Millar, project manager for the project, told the Planning Board that 15 to 18 months of planning had gone into the concept proposal before them. He said Mrs. Johnson had also considered a single-family residential development and a conversion of two smaller houses on the property as well as the upper level of the main house would result in overnight accommodations for about 21 guests. He said member demand would influence the decision on exactly how many overnight guest rooms would be created.

Two other houses on the property as well as the upper level of the main house will be converted to guest rooms accommodating 21 guests. Mr. Millar said this number is not fixed and will depend on member demand. He said there would be from 400 to 600 ference facility in addition to a golf course, but her desire to retain the beauty of the property led her to view the golf course as the best alternative.

Mr. Millar commented that the 226 acres (211 in Princeton Township, 15 in Lawrence Township) presents difficulties in terms of its jagged outlines and elongated shape, its environmental constraints and interaction with neighbors. He also noted that the gated entrance on Province Line Road has always been viewed as the primary entrance to Jasna Polana, with the driveway from Route 206 being for staff use and deliveries.

Main House in Middle

Mr. Millar said that one of the problems in laying out an 18-hole championship golf course at Jasna Polana was the location of the main house in a hollow in the middle of the property. Ideally, the first nine holes should start and end at the club house and so should the second nine, Mr. Millar said.

This has been done, but some of the tees and some of the approaches infringe on the 125-foot setback from neighboring properties. Moreover, the two starting holes play up hill, which is not considered ideal.

Several neighbors had already spoken with Mr. Millar about specific problems before the meeting, and he said thought was being given to moving tees and adding buffer in certain locations. The Planning Board was given a run-through of how each of the 18 holes would play, but there seemed to be more concern on the intensity of use and the impact on Province Line Road. Mr. Millar said that the

Meet the Candidates

The public is invited to the annual "Meet the Princeton Candidates Night" on Thursday from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at the Jewish Center of Princeton, 457 Nassau Street.

Princeton Borough candidates Arnold Smolens (R), Raymond Wadsworth (R), Mark Freda (D), and Arthur Saylor (D), as well as Princeton Township candidates Michael Giardino (R), Carl Mayer (D), and Stephen O'Connor (D) will answer questions from a media panel and the public.

The forum is sponsored by the Princeton Area League of Women Voters and Chamber of Commerce, the Jewish Center, and the National Political Congress of Black Women.

Nonpartisan Voters Guides with information about the U.S. Congressional races will be available both at this forum and in area libraries.

ility will need from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection. He also described the underlying geology of the property, saying there was a barrier between the Locatong formation, on top of which the neighbors were located, and the Stockton formation under Jasna Polana, so that water consumption at Jasna Polana should not affect properties with wells in the Locatong formation.

Others expressed concern about the possible widening of Province Line Road, and still others wanted assurances that construction traffic would not impact their properties. Joseph Mahan said his longstanding concern was the herd of deer that run across the Jasna Polana and Lambert properties. He asked if there could be some kind of animal control.

Addressing the fact that the Lambert property is zoned for part of the tract to be in affordable housing or a financial contribution in lieu of housing, Mr. Baker said several discussions had been held in an attempt to work out an agreement but that he expected the solution to be a contribution in lieu of housing.

Upgrade of Gas Station

In other business, the Planning Board heard a proposal for upgrading the gas station at the corner of Bayard Lane and Birch Avenue. The applicant, Haynes Motor Fuels, seeks permission to replace the existing gas pumps with new dual dispenser pumps and construct a 20-foot by 32-foot canopy with facade signs over them. The application also involves replacing an existing 16-foot-tall free-standing sign with a free-standing sign of the same height at the very corner of the property.

The station is currently a Mobil gas station and is expected to become a Texaco station.

The Planning Board had many concerns in regard to lighting, the location of the free-standing sign, the visibility of canopy signs to neighbors across Bayard Lane and safety in making a left-hand turn into the station for motorists driving south on Bayard Lane.

After some discussion, the applicant volunteered to return at another date, having worked out some of the problems with the Township and Planning Board professional staff.

members in different categories, but he said this too is not a final number.

For comparison, Bedens Brook Club, which also has tennis and swimming facilities, has 240 golfing members and 90 associate members. Cherry Valley Country Club, which also has tennis and swim memberships and is a residential community, currently has 220 regular golfing members and 63 invitational golfing members, with a cap of 340 golf memberships.

Springdale Golf Club has 325 members and is strictly a golf club. Mr. Millar made a distinction between a country club which also offers swimming and tennis and is available to families and a golf club, which Jasna Polana is intended to be. It will have one tennis court and an indoor swim pool, and the outdoor pool on the Lambert portion of the property may or may not be retained, he said.

No Driving Range

He objected to the description of the golf practice area that will be located on the property as a "driving range," which connotes a big lighted area with netting to catch balls. There were questions as to special events. Mr. Millar said there might be a member-guest day or corporate play, but he said it was "premature" to say whether or not there would be tournaments.

Borough Mayor Marvin Reed of the Planning Board said a decision will have to be made soon, because the site plan has to show how traffic and spectators will be handled in order for the Township to grant a permit for a special event of any magnitude.

The dining room will seat 75 to 100 people, but there will be no big ballrooms, Mr. Millar said. Anticipating questions about whether the facility would be available for weddings and banquets, he said all services will be for members and their guests. "This will be a private club," Mr. Millar stated, with members drawn from the local area and out-of-the area.

Several neighbors expressed concern about the amount of water required to maintain a golf course properly and whether there would be an impact on their wells. Marty O'Brien, Jasna Polana estate manager, described well testing required as part of a water allocation permit the fa-

$1.8 Million ADA Cost Is Estimate for Borough

According to a report released on Monday, about a third of the estimated $1.8 million it will cost to bring Borough-owned buildings into compliance with the federal Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) would be needed to renovate the Arts Council building.

The total estimated tab for ADA work was determined in a report issued by Sussna Architects, State Road. The Arts Council building accounts for $540,000.

Until the receipt of the report, the Borough and Arts Council had been assuming that about $350,000 would be needed to do the work. The larger figure was disputed on Monday afternoon by Arts Council Executive Director Anne Reeves. "We are questioning this figure at this moment."

Ms. Reeves said that Arts Council Board member Karen Nichols, of Michael Graves Architects, was looking at the figures.

Under the ADA, the Borough must ensure that individuals with disabilities are not excluded from services, programs, and activities because of inaccessible facilities.

The report estimates the cost of bringing Borough Hall up to ADA requirements at $810,000; the Suzanne Patterson Center, $65,000; and the Public Library, $145,000.

No estimate was given for the three Princeton firehouses since the Borough has set a policy that the firehouses should not be used as places of public accommodation.

Estimated at $250,000, the new elevator and ramp are the most expensive items at the Arts Council building. Cost of renovating the restrooms is given at $45,000, and it is estimated that paving the parking lot and providing accessible spaces would cost $10,000.

"The Arts Council came in pretty high," said Mayor Marvin Reed. "It's a 1939 building and it's used very heavily. What impressed me is how battered the poor building is."

He added that he didn't think much less than what was outlined in the report could be done and still protect the Borough from a legal challenge.

The question of who will pay for the Arts Council compliance with ADA remains unanswered. But members of Council have strongly urged the organization to launch a capital campaign for this purpose.

There is no question as to who pays for the ADA renovations at Borough Hall

Clothing Pick-up Set

The fourth annual "Caring Through Clothing" collection day will be held Saturday, November 12, from 10 to 4 at Princeton Shopping Center.

The Rescue Mission of Trenton will have two trucks in the parking areas to receive used clothing donations from Center patrons and employees. The clothing is given to indigent persons or sold in one of the Rescue Mission's three outlet stores to raise money to support its emergency shelter and residential treatment programs for chronically addicted persons.

Slightly more than three tons of good used clothing was received in November, 1993. Tax receipts will be available for those who wish them.

According to Chris Hanington, promotion director at the Shopping Center, the Salvation Army used clothing dumpster that was located near Super Fresh was discontinued because it became a receptacle for all kinds of trash as well as clothing.

The Rescue Mission's once-a-year truck collection provides Shopping Center patrons an easy way to turn unwanted clothes into worthwhile charity, Ms. Hanington said.

and the Suzanne Patterson Center; the Borough taxpayer. The costs at the library would be shared with the Township.

No elevator is planned at the Suzanne Patterson Center, which is the major reason for the estimate coming in at only $65,000.

"As soon as you talk about an elevator, you talk about $250,000 to $300,000," said Mayor Reed. But he cautioned that the use of the Suzanne Patterson Center building, which also houses Artworks, might have to be cut back if the lower level had to be closed to public use.

The Mayor said he had anticipated having to replace the elevator at the library, but that this was not mentioned in the report. Instead, $15,000 is allocated for upgrading the panel, controls and hall signals.

The ADA work, which applies only to the current library building, also includes renovation of the restrooms on the first and second floors, estimated to cost $57,000, and upgrading the alarm system, at $8,000.

The major ADA costs at Borough Hall are an elevator ($350,000), rest room renovation ($75,000), and exit and stair installation ($40,000).

The ADA report was expected to be discussed at the Tuesday night, October 25, meeting of Borough Council.

Township and Borough Team Up for DWI Arrest

A Princeton Borough police officer pursued a DWI suspect into Princeton Township early Tuesday morning in an incident that led to both motor vehicle and criminal charges.

Borough police officer John Furyk stopped an erratically-driven car on Route 206 near Mountain Avenue at approximately 2:13 a.m. Because the car had traveled into the Township, officers from that department arrived to provide back-up.

During the investigation, the driver of the car became belligerent, and assaulted one of the officers who was trying to place him under arrest, causing no serious injury.

The driver, 19-year-old Rolando Huesca of Lambertville, was charged by the Township police with assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest. The passenger in the car, Luis Rodriguez, 23, also of Lambertville, was charged with obstructing justice. Borough police will be filing a DWI complaint against Huesca, whose blood alcohol level at the time of his arrest was approximately 0.13 percent.

Both men were released on their own recognizance, pending a court appearance.

Police charged Michael S. Smith, 32, of Southfield, N.Y., with defiant trespass. Smith was discovered sleeping in the ladies' room of Fine Hall on the University campus at approximately 6 a.m. on October 16. He had been warned previously not to trespass on the grounds of the University.

Two bicycles were reported stolen in the Township this week. In the first block of Leigh Avenue, an 18-speed mountain bike of unknown make was taken from the side of a residence. It was valued at $200.

A 16" Trek mountain bike valued at $200 was taken from outside the John Witherspoon Middle School, where it had been left locked to a rack between 8:15 a.m. and 6 p.m. on October 14.

A 1984 Ford pick-up truck parked in a lot on Quaker Road near the Delaware and Raritan canal had all four of its tires slashed on the morning of October 18, between 5:55 and 8 a.m.

The tires were valued at $200 each, for a total of $800 in damage.

Bogus Charity Collector Strikes Redding Circle

Police reported that between 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. on October 18, a woman claiming to be collecting money for St. Paul's church took $10 from a woman living in Redding Circle. According to St. Paul's officials, no one is authorized to be collecting money for the church in that manner at this time.

The woman is described as a white female in her early 20s, between 5' and 5'2. She has short brown hair, and was wearing a blue sweater at the time of the incident.

TWO MONEY-SAVING QUESTIONS FROM THE U-STORE:

1. Why Buy When You Can Rent?

It doesn't make sense to store and maintain equipment you use only occasionally.

2. Why Replace When You Can Repair?

Today many people falsely believe that "it's just not worth it" to have equipment repaired.

In fact, repairs made by well-trained professionals who take pride in their work are an excellent alternative to replacing equipment, both from an economical and an ecological perspective.

Our Photo Department offers repair services for cameras and projectors, our Stationery Department offers repair services for typewriters, and our Computer Department repairs computers, printers, and peripherals.

It's No Bull: Another Pot Bust in Princeton

There was no hushed silence in the parking lot behind St. Paul's Church last Saturday afternoon, as a station wagon bedecked with a large set of cattle horns came to a stop before a rope and pylon barrier. Similarly, there were no shouts of "Ole!" as the car sped forward, breaking the rope and doing an estimated $100 worth of damage to the pylons supporting it.

There was, however, one very irritated church employee in the parking lot, who immediately called the police and informed them that after doing the damage, the horn-hooded car had roared out of the parking lot, headed for Nassau Street.

Finding the car would not have tested the abilities of the Borough police on any day, but the task was made easier last Saturday by the large number of officers on traffic duty after the Princeton football game.

The car was spotted turning on to University Place, and a license plate check revealed the owner to be a University student residing in Pine Hall.

Two officers were dispatched to Pine Hall to discuss the matter with the driver. Arriving there, they happened to walk past the suspect's window. Plainly visible through the window were three men smoking a large water pipe. According to officers, the odor of burnt marijuana was very noticeable outside the room.

As one officer knocked on the door, the second watched through the window as the three scrambled to hide the pipe. Gaining admittance to the room, they noted that while the large pipe had been hidden behind a piece of furniture, a second, smaller pipe remained in plain view. Sitting next to the second pipe, also in plain view, was a bag of marijuana.

Three men were charged in the incident. The driver of the car, Brooke Coburn, 24, of New York City, was charged with criminal mischief, possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of marijuana in an amount under 50 grams.

Two others, 21-year-old John Kearns, of Maine; and 21-year-old Stewart Barry, of Minnesota, were charged with possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of marijuana in an amount under 50 grams.

Ewing Street, was fined $100 for careless driving.

Wanda L. McEwen, of 34 Tupelo Row, was fined a total of $830 for driving a vehicle without proper lights, and driving on a suspended license. She also received a 30-day license suspension, and a one-day jail term equated to time served in court.

Christoph A. Nkadi, of 14 Redding Circle, was fined $525 for driving on a suspended license.

Alicia M. Reed, of 12 Cleveland Road, was fined $525 for driving on a suspended license.

Maynor O. Villatoro, of 25 Pine Street, was fined $350 and received a one-year license revocation for driving an uninsured vehicle.

Pulling Over Speeders, Police Net Crack Stash

A Borough police officer working a radar gun on Hamilton Avenue at 8 p.m. last Thursday evening initiated a motor vehicle stop which resulted in a crack cocaine bust.

The officer spotted a car doing 47 m.p.h. in a 25 m.p.h. zone, and began to pursue it. He pulled the car over after it had made a left turn onto Chestnut Street, and began to interview the driver.

During the conversation with the driver, the officer noted the odor of alcohol on his breath.

At that point, other officers had responded to provide assistance. All of the occupants of the car were asked to step outside, and as they did, one of the officers noticed a small piece of wadded paper fall to the ground.

Examination of the paper called police on Saturday to report that the car had been stolen some time between 8:30 and 10:15 a.m.

Her 1986 Honda was found later, reported police, not far from the spot in which it had been originally parked. Police determined that the car had actually been moved by a third party, and that the case was not one of simple forgetfulness.

When the car was found, the hood had been propped open, but nothing had been stolen, and no damage had been done.

revealed that it contained a small quantity of what police believe to be crack cocaine. Discovered on the ground in front of the vehicle was a paper bag containing 12 smaller plastic bags, each with crack inside them.

Police charged the driver, nineteen-year-old Khaton Merrill, of 130 John Street, with driving while intoxicated, speeding, driving without a license in his possession, and possession of narcotics in a motor vehicle. Mr. Merrill and his two passengers, William Burnett, 21, of 12 Wilbur Court, Hamilton; and Adrien Elie, 18, of 24 West Palm Avenue, Trenton, will also face drug charges. Police have charged them with possession of crack cocaine, possession with the intent to distribute, and possession within 1,000 feet of a school zone.

The three were released on their own recognizance, pending an October 31 court appearance.

Bike Thief Is Arrested After Near-Victim's Tip

A University student residing on Edwards Place called campus security at 9:45 p.m. on Saturday to report a man whom he had seen tampering with a locked bicycle.

Security personnel found a man answering the description nearby on Dickinson Street, removing the wheels from a bicycle as he knelt near the side of a car. Inside the car was a second bicycle.

Both of the bikes had identification stickers that showed them to be the property of Princeton students. One, in fact, belonged to the student who had called security.

Borough police arrived and placed 19-year-old Michael Jones, of 72 Center Street, Nutley, under arrest. He was charged with possession of stolen property, and possession of burglary tools.

He was later released on his own recognizance, with a court appearance scheduled for Monday, October 31.

Other charges, this time for drug possession, were filed this week after a student called campus security.

A student reported three men behaving suspiciously in the neighborhood of Lockhardt Hall at 11:30 p.m. on October 18. Security responded, and during their investigation, they discovered one of the men to be in possession of marijuana.

Borough police arrived, and subsequently charged William Martens, 20, of 117 Parker Place in Trenton, with possession of marijuana in an amount under 50 grams.

Police reported an act of theft and criminal mischief at the Sunoco station on the corner of Nassau Street and Murray Place. Between 10 p.m. on Sunday and 7 a.m. the next morning, an unknown person broke into a soda machine, stealing $35 in cash and a coin changer valued at $200.

An unattended canvas bag containing a 35mm camera, paint supplies, and a tin whistle was stolen from the Tiger Inn on Prospect Avenue between 1 a.m. and 3:30 a.m. on October 23.

A cottage on Greenholm was entered between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. on October 21, said police, apparently by forcing a door lock. Taken from the residence was a Panasonic VCR valued at $75.

Three bicycles were stolen from outside Princeton High School between October 18 and October 22. All three of the bikes were locked, and two of them were taken during school hours. The third was left overnight at the school.

A 21-speed Schwinn was stolen from outside the public library between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. on October 19. Valued at $250, the bike had been locked.

Far too many bicycles to mention individually (13 in total) were reported stolen on the University campus this week.

Police stated that 12 of the 13 were locked. However, that number probably does not reflect the percentage that were secured to large, immovable objects capable of deterring a thief, which is, typically, small.

In Borough Court this week, Edmund Wierzbicki, of 55 Palmer Square, was fined $75 for tampering with a motor vehicle.

Andrea El-Dawasouri, of 200 Hamilton Avenue, was fined $100 for failure to signal a vehicular movement.

Huemer Ursula, of 54 Constitution Hill, was fined a total of $150 for driving an uninsured and unregistered vehicle.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

By Tod Peyton

GROOMING YOUR YARD

Does your yard have a smooth, green lawn, well-trimmed hedge, freshly painted fence and bicycles and lawn tools stored neatly out of sight? One of the most important indicators of pride of ownership is a well-groomed yard. And neighborhood pride can pay impressive dividends to homeowners.

Even if you don't plan to move soon, your well cared for yard could help your neighbors who are trying to sell their homes. Yard work and gardening can turn into a relaxing and rewarding hobby that can pay off in beautiful flowers and higher property values. If you all do your share to make your street look terrific, prospective buyers will find it especially attractive, and the demand for homes like yours is likely to increase. This will help nearby homes to sell for top dollar. Then when you sell or refinance your home, the comparable homes in your neighborhood will support a higher price for your home.

For dependable, individual advice on buying or selling real estate, call Tod Peyton, Realtor or consult any Peyton Associate at 921-1550. Feel free to stop by my office at 343 Nassau Street in Princeton.

Controversy Is Ignited At School Board Monday

After listening for nearly two hours to the School District's plans for improving the academic performance of minority students, several Princeton residents took issue with some of what they heard.

There was little discussion of the means to be employed to improve academic performance, although the general feeling was that not much new was being presented. But the dialogue became strained after Program Committee Chair Chiara Nappi spoke.

She said that the schools have to address the issues that create the problem, and that there is a strong socioeconomic correlation between minority achievement and poverty level.

Ms. Nappi also said the District should set high standards, and that poor-quality curriculum doesn't help students achieve.

The Rev. William Gipson told Ms. Nappi that her sociology was "scary." Board member Ruth Bonlet quickly interjected that it was inappropriate to make a personal attack on a Board member.

"My concern is that we present this kind of sociology to explain our situation here," said Mr. Gipson, a former School Board member.

"It is not your children who are in danger," responded Ms. Nappi. "It is the children of poor people. You do not represent them."

A woman in the audience rose and said, "But I do. I'm the poorest of the poor. Not only do I demand the best from the system, but I ask that my kids not be looked at as poor kids, just as kids."

Academic Achievement

Superintendent of Schools Marcia Bossart had begun the meeting by affirming that a major goal of the District is to improve minority academic achievement. Studies made over the past several years have found that the academic performance of African-American and Latino students has lagged significantly behind that of white and Asian students.

THE REV. FELICIA THOMAS, pastor of First Baptist Church, at a School Board Program Committee meeting at which the District's plans for improving minority achievement were presented.

Efforts to address this problem, as outlined by the Superintendent and members of the administrative staff, fell in the areas of need recognition, District initiatives, early intervention, parent partnerships, classroom, school extensions, and staff recruitment.

"I commend the staff for the work done on this important issue," said the Rev. Felicia Thomas, pastor of First Baptist Church. But, she said, goals were missing from the discussion, and that it was impossible to assess the academic improvement of minority students without clear goals.

"Do we have a percentage of how many minorities we want in advanced placement, in special education?" asked Ms. Thomas.

Committed to Measuring

Dr. Bossart said the District was committed to measuring to see if progress was being made, and that she expected the minority population would be represented in advanced placement and special education the same as all other populations.

Township resident Roz Frisesh asked that the staff evaluation process include whether teachers have been successful in improving the academic performance of minority students.

"I have heard nothing about vocational education," said Beverly Schorr. "There should be some recognition that not every child who graduates from high school goes to college."

Although there were a number of African-Americans in the audience, Latino representation was sparse. Teresita Bastides-Heron, who was born in Ecuador, said she was concerned that the Latino children at the high school might have trouble with a new math schedule outlined by High School Principal Leigh Byron. "Some of these kids don't have English," she said.

Minority Staff

Mr. Gipson asked about goals relating to minority staff recruitment. Dr. Bossart said these would be available next month.

"I know these plans will not work until goals are set," said Ms. Thomas. Mr. Gipson said he wanted an institutional effort with markers along the way.

"Achieving parity is not enough for me," said Board member Michael Littman. "Most of the kids opting out of foreign languages and the music program at the high school are minorities. I suggest that we require these courses."

Mr. Littman also said he wanted to look at the whole issue of school dynamics, which relates to race relations at each school.

"I feel the Board should be embracing of critique," said Ms. Thomas. "I see us working together. It is very important. I do not perceive my concern has been heard."

She added that she believed there was a real communications problem, but she commended the meeting as a first step in reaching the goal of improving minority academic performance.

Appellate Court Upholds Borough Cop's Dismissal

The Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court announced on Monday that they had upheld a lower court's decision that the dismissal of former Borough police officer Vincent DeMartino by Princeton Borough was justified.

The appeal was filed in reaction to a prior decision that stated that Princeton Borough, in the persons of the mayor, council, police chief, and others, was justified in firing then-officer DeMartino in March of 1993.

STUART OPEN HOUSE: Jen Chiurco, Micaela Cook and Courtney Ward, ninth grade students at Stuart Country Day School, will be on hand to welcome prospective students and their families at the Open House scheduled for Sunday, November 6, from 1 to 3. Information will be available about the merit scholarship program which annually awards scholarships of one-third tuition for four years at Stuart to three eighth grade girls. Jen, Micaela and Courtney were the recipients of the scholarships awarded last spring.

Request for Head Start Rejected by Washington

The Princeton Regional District has been informed by the Department of Health & Human Services that its application for a Head Start program was not selected for funding.

Helen H. Taylor, associate commissioner of the Head Start Bureau, wrote that 324 applications had been received, many of them of high quality.

"Unfortunately, there is not enough money to support all of the applications we would like to have funded."

Ms. Taylor said that the reviewers' assessment of the application's strengths and weaknesses would be sent in the near future.

School Board member Elizabeth Wilczek, who was closely involved in the effort to obtain Head Start, said she was looking forward to receiving this assessment, as it would help in developing a proposal next year.

New Entity Established To Create Care Facility

An entity called Princeton Retirement Community Inc. has been established with the express purpose of creating and maintaining a Life Care Retirement Community in the Princeton area.

The organization will work with Michael Doyle of Nova-Hill partners, whose initial efforts to develop such a community on the Tusculum property resulted in the de-

FACTS NOT FICTION

As Trustees of the Princeton Public Library we want to set the record straight. Facts not uninformed or misinformed opinions should guide the decision-making about library expansion.

ASSERTION: The Library's second floor has 18,000 sq. ft.

FACT: Second floor = 13,700 sq. ft.

ASSERTION: A substantial portion of the second floor of the library is currently allocated to locked staff meeting rooms.

FACT: There is a single meeting room of 768 sq. ft.

ASSERTION: The library has a 1,200 sq. ft. office where staff meetings and conferences could be held.

FACT: There is an office of sufficient size for meetings. The Administrative Offices are composed of three distinct rooms (650 sq. feet in total). There is no 1,200 sq. ft. office. All staff work areas are crowded.

ASSERTION: The library has a 1,200 sq. foot staff lounge.

FACT: The staff lounge is 255 sq. ft. plus a 60 sq. ft. kitchenette which also serves as a passage way to the staff bathrooms. This modest 17' by 15' area is used by 23 full-time and 33 part-time staff plus numerous volunteers.

ASSERTION: Rarely do more than 3 or 4 people use the study area on the second floor.

FACT: Second floor seating has been reserved as a quiet study area which is welcomed and appreciated by many library users. The number of people using this area ebbs and flows throughout the day. Spot checks during the week of October 16-22 revealed that at some time during each day there were 13-15 people seated in this area.

ASSERTION: The issue of how to maximize the usefulness of the existing space has not been professionally studied.

FACT: Phase I of the Expansion Feasibility Study included recommendations on how to reconfigure existing space. Some of these recommendations (such as the elimination of our record collection) have already been implemented, others are in process, some were too expensive to implement at this time given the pending possibility of expansion.

Library administrators are currently working with a professional library space planning consultant to identify more affordable interim solutions. A major shift of the collection upstairs, freeing up space for more seating downstairs will soon be undertaken.

ASSERTION: The present library needs no expansion.

FACT: The size of the current building was reduced by 27% (nearly 10,000 sq. ft.) from its recommended size against the advice of the original library consultant and architect.

This is our third multi-year expansion effort since 1971. The various library experts associated with each effort have all agreed that given the demands placed on the library by our well-educated community, our library is undersized.

In 1989 after over a year of intensive study and deliberations, an 18 member Citizen's Advisory Committee concluded that our library "inadequately meets this community's current needs, let alone its future needs." And further that "without radical improvements in its facilities, the Library's ability to serve that community will deteriorate rapidly during the next two decades."

A nationally-acclaimed library consultant concluded in Phase I of the Expansion Feasibility Study that our present building is undersized by 40% given existing collections and services.

development of amendments to the Township zoning ordinance permitting a continuing care retirement community as a conditional use in certain Township zoning districts and establishing minimum lot size, bulk and set-back standards.

Princeton Retirement Community (PRC) has named five long-time Princeton residents as trustees. They are Ellis Anderson, retired senior vice president and board member of Hoffman LaRoche Inc. U.S.A. of Nutley; Dean Chace, retired senior vice president, General Electric and R.C.A. Licensing Management Systems;

Also, Barbara Smoyer, former Township Committeewoman, one of the founders of the Princeton Open Space Committee and also of Corner House, head of the ad hoc committee to study possible uses of Tusculum for Township Committee and active in numerous community organizations; James Hartford, director emeritus, American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and former Visiting Fellow, National Air & Space Museum; and William Sword, founder and chairman, William Sword & Co. investment banking firm and former partner, Morgan Stanley Inc.

A.C. Reeves Hicks, attorney and partner in McCarthy & Hicks, Smith Lambert Hicks & Miller and more recently Drinker Biddle & Reath, has been named board secretary and legal counsel. Mr. Hicks is also applying for non-profit 501 (c)3 status for the organization.

True Life Care Offered

Mr. Chace, who is president of the board, said the mission of the Princeton Retirement Community is to build a retirement community in the Princeton area which promotes healthful and active living along with providing long-term care on site for life.

The proposed community will offer a true life care program, which means that in exchange for an entrance fee and monthly service fee, residents will have independent housing, services and amenities, activities and unlimited long-term nursing care or support services all on site and at virtually no increase to their monthly fee.

According to Mr. Doyle, not all continuing care retirement communities are structured this way. Some may require payment of set fees for nursing care which are typically higher than the monthly service fee.

Mr. Doyle will continue working with Princeton Retirement Community Inc. to find an appropriate tract of land in the Princeton area on which to build a quality new life care retirement community and to develop the financing.

The trustees have also named several other members of the development team to ensure what is described as "a well-conceptualized, well-designed, constructed and run retirement community."

CRSA (Cooperative Retirement Services of America), a senior living consulting company based in Memphis, Tenn., will guide the marketing and management of the community. Retirement Living Services of Hartford, Conn., headed by Avery Rockefeller III and P. Douglas Powell, will be the lead developer, while Krapf-candoit Company of Wilmington, Del., a leading construction company of life care facilities under the direction of James Krapf, has been designated as general contractor.

Hillier Group Architects and Planners will be involved in designing the project.

For more information write to Princeton Retirement Community Inc., c/o A.C. Reeves Hicks, 47 Hulfish Street, P.O. Box 627, Princeton 08542, or call him at 497-7026.

Squad Seeks Donations For Emergency Services

The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad is launching its annual fund drive this week. The fund drive is critical to the existence of the Squad.

Since 1939, the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad has provided emergency medical and rescue services to the residents of Princeton Borough and Township. The Squad membership is comprised of men and women from the community who volunteer their time to help the community. The Squad is the only emergency ambulance

How Do You Know A Nice Fish When You Meet One?

This is an important question. In general, look for the same qualities in a fish that you would in a friend: clear eyes, healthy skin-color and no strong body odors.

A fish that fits these criteria is a fish worth taking home.

Ask The Paint Professor:

What causes paint to fade in some areas while retaining the original shade in others ?

Paint fades due to the ultraviolet rays from the sun, so fading is most prominent on areas that are exposed to the most sunlight. Thus, you may see paint fade on the lower section of a wall, but little or no fade on the upper portion of the same wall that is protected by a roof overhang or soffit. When you choose your new house color, keep in mind that as a general rule, the darker the hue, the more pronounced the fade. Dark browns or blues, for example, are often prone to exhibit fading. To correct the problem and prevent recurrence, remove peeling or flaking paint, spot prime, and recoat with a colorfast latex topcoat.

service for Princeton, and provides its services for free. Residents never receive a bill for their emergency service.

Calls for the Squad during the first nine months of 1994 have been up 11% over 1993.

Contributions to the fund drive are used to meet the day to day operating expenses of the Squad and to meet its capital needs. All the vehicles, building repairs, every expense of the Squad — except for two paid EMTs, is funded by contributions from the public. The cost of the paid day crew is earmarked by the two municipalities to guarantee coverage between the hours of 8 and 5:30; this is the only municipal assistance the Squad gets.

Residents of Princeton should receive the fund drive brochure in the mail soon. Since it is hard to keep the mailing list current, the Squad encourages anyone who might have been missed to send a contribution to Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad Inc., PO Box 529, Princeton 08542. Please include name and address.

Skating Club Schedules Open House & Free Skate

The Princeton Skating Club will hold its annual Open House and free skate on Sunday from 4 to 6 at Baker Rink, located off Faculty Road on the Princeton University campus. Participants should bring their own ice skates.

For those who haven't learned to skate but always wanted to, or those who find their skill a little rusty after a few years away from the ice, a professional instructor will give a free group lesson to all interested parties. To provide the maximum time for skating, exhibitions by junior members will be limited and there will be only one re-surfacing period.

There will be ample opportunity to speak to professional instructors about lessons and the fitting of skates and club officials will be available to explain various disciplines as well as the benefits of club membership. Light refreshments will be available.

Public Meeting Is Set At Plasma Physics Lab

The Princeton University Plasma Physics Laboratory (PPPL) will hold a public meeting Thursday at 7:30 to present information and answer questions relating to the draft Environmental Assessment and proposed Finding of No Significant Impact for the Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor (TFTR) Shutdown and Removal Project and the planned Tokamak Physics Experiment (TPX) Project. The proposed Finding of No Significant Impact was published in the Federal Register on October 5, 1994, marking the beginning of a 30-day public comment period.

TFTR is a physics experiment used in the development of fusion energy as a safe, inexhaustible, and environmentally attractive means of generating electricity for the long-term. TPX is proposed to replace TFTR which will complete its very successful program next year. The TPX is being planned as a national project aimed at the development of a more compact, economical fusion reactor. Fusion energy research at PPPL is funded by the United States Department of Energy.

Copies of the draft Environmental Assessment can be obtained from Dr. Milton D. Johnson, Manager, Princeton Area Office, U.S. Department of Energy, P.O. Box 102, Princeton, N.J. 08542. The phone number is 243-3700.

The meeting will take place in the M.B. Gottlieb Auditorium, located in the PPPL Laboratory Office Building at C-Site on the James Forrestal Campus, off Route 1 in Plainsboro.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

Princeton High School

The 1994-95 academic year promises to continue the dynamic tradition of Princeton High School. Already, field trips, guest speakers and teacher research have provided enrichment opportunities for the students.

Recent field trips included a tour of Ellis Island to discover the immigrant experience by the American Expressions class of Constance Embley and Marylu Huchet and a visit by the art class of Rosemary Blair to the graphics and design studio of Gillespie Advertising where artists and advertising media specialists reviewed technique and career opportunity.

Two guest speakers provided stimulating insight for students. Dr. Roy Wilkens, director of Advanced Placement Examinations in Art at ETS, addressed the Art AP class of Rosemary Blair; Gina Kolata, a writer for the New York Times and one of the authors of Sex in America reviewed the process of writing with the English classes of Merlo Reso.

The experiences of several teachers which will continue to enhance students include those of Joan Goodman, who attended the 1994 Geraldine R. Dodge Poetry Festival at Waterloo Village; Rosemary Blair, who participated in the Art Educators of New Jersey conference; Joan Pachuta, Constance Jurens, Thomas Ronge and Karen Indyk, who attended a week-long workshop designed to enrich the secondary math program at the Forrestal campus of Princeton University; Patricia Thomas, who enjoyed a writing workshop and seminar on reinventing the classroom in courses sponsored by the Northeast University Graduate Program; Bernard Poncin, who toured the French Pyrenees to view several chateaux of the Cathares, a dissident Christian movement of the Middle Ages, and Auvergne, to view abbeys, cloisters and cathedrals.

To benefit the PHS Band program, the Count Basie Orchestra will perform in the PHS Auditorium on October 26 at 7:30 p.m. Prior to the concert, the Studio Jazz Band will perform.

The program cost is $10 and includes continental breakfast, lunch and parking. All participants will receive a coupon for $10 off the installation of Lifeline, a push-button emergency response system.

For additional information or to register call 497-4480, weekdays from 8:30 to 4.

New Wal-Mart Promises 200 Jobs for Residents

Wal-Mart Corporate offices in Bentonville, Ark., has announced that the new Wal-Mart on Route 1 and Quakerbridge Road, in West Windsor, will create 200 new jobs for area residents.

The store is scheduled to open this spring.

According to a press release, the opening of the 136,940 square foot store will "positively impact the Princeton economy in several ways."

Among these is the development of jobs as department managers, cashiers, and clerks; in addition to the creation of local job opportunities in the construction and service industries.

As part of its community involvement efforts, the store will offer a $1,000 scholarship. "The goal of every local Wal-Mart store is to become an active part of the community, and by working with area merchants, promote that city as a retail trade center," said David Glass, president and CEO of Wal-Mart. "We look forward to developing a long-term partnership with the area residents of Princeton."

Workshop for Caregivers At the Medical Center

Princeton Medical Center invites the community to attend "Caring and Coping... A Day of Learning for the Caregiver at Home," presented by the Department of Home Care on Saturday, November 5, from 8:30 to 3.

This educational day is planned for individuals who are providing day-to-day care to a family member or may be faced with the possibility in the future. Workshops will be presented and are structured to provide information, demonstrations and hands-on experience to help participants provide the best care possible to loved ones. Participants may select between two workshop groups: Caring for the Rehabilitation Patient or Caring for a Chronically or Terminally Ill Patient.

Workshops will provide hints on how to move a patient out of bed into the bathroom or out of a chair. Feeding, meal preparation and home safety will also be discussed. Additional workshops will focus on aspects of basic daily care such as bathing, grooming, making an occupied bed and more. An afternoon panel will offer insight on the home care needs of a hospice patient.

After the workshops, representatives will be available to answer questions.

14 Births Are Reported By the Medical Center

In the week ending October 13, eight boys and six girls were born to area residents at Princeton Medical Center.

Sons were born to Takashi and Misko Kawazoe of Plainsboro, Larry and Jamie Sanders of Princeton Junction, Vincent and Mary Colonna of Plainsboro, Michael and Audrey Steinberg of Plainsboro, Bing-Jiaa and Hong-Bin Ni of Plainsboro, all on October 8;

Also to Timothy and Carroll Roberts of Princeton, Zoltan and Pruska Szabo of Princeton, October 9; and

Environmental Impact Study of Fusion Projects

The United States Department of Energy (DOE) has released for public review a draft Environmental Assessment (EA) relating to two proposed projects at the Princeton University Plasma Physics Laboratory (PPPL).

The draft Environmental Assessment evaluates the environmental impact of the decontamination and decommissioning of PPPL's Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor (TFTR), which will complete its experimental program in 1995 after 12 years of operation. Also analyzed is the impact of the construction and operation of the proposed Tokamak Physics Experiment (TPX), an advanced fusion energy device, which would physically replace the TFTR.

The draft EA concludes that the proposed TFTR and TPX projects would not result in significant adverse impacts to the environment. The draft has been reviewed extensively by officials of the DOE and the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection.

As a result, the DOE proposes to issue a Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI). A preliminary FONSI appears in the current issue of the Federal Register, marking the beginning of a 30-day public review period. Federal, State, and local officials, as well as representatives of environmental groups have been provided copies of the preliminary FONSI.

Copies of the draft Environmental Assessment and preliminary FONSI may be obtained by contacting Dr. Milton D. Johnson, Manager, Princeton Area Office, United States Department of Energy, P.O. Box 102, Princeton, N.J. 08542, or calling him at 243-3700.

Comments and questions should be directed to Dr. Johnson on or before Friday, November 4.

The draft Environmental Assessment and preliminary FONSI are available for public inspection at the following libraries: Princeton Public Library, 65 Witherspoon Street; Firestone Library, Princeton University; Plainboro Branch, Middlesex County Library; Plainboro Municipal Center, Scudders Mill and Dey roads; and West Windsor Branch, Mercer County Library, 333 North Post Road, Princeton Junction.

Choosing Nursery School Is Topic of Open House

The Family Resource Infant Center (FRIC) located in the lower level of Princeton United Methodist Church will hold its annual open house presenting information on Princeton area nursery schools and pre-school facilities. The open house is scheduled for Wednesday, November 2, from 9:30 to noon.

Nancy Thomson, resource development coordinator of Child Care Connection, Delaware Valley United Way, will present a slide show entitled "Selecting a Quality Preschool" from 9:45 to 10:30. Parents are then encouraged to visit and interview the nursery school representatives.

FRIC is a cooperative parent education and family support center. The staff and volunteers provide a safe and stimulating environment in which parents and children can learn and play together.

Upcoming classes include "Unplugging the Holiday Machine," a four-session workshop encouraging more joy and less stress for holiday celebrating, and "You and Your Toddler: Building Self-Discipline," three sessions, starting November 30. Non-members are welcome.

FRIC is open Wednesday through Friday from 9:30 to 12:30. For membership information call 924-2167.

Familyborn Programs Scheduled for November

Familyborn, the Mildred Morgan Center for birth and women's health, is offering several classes and free consultations during the month of November.

Classes include free inductory childbirth seminars with certified nurse-midwives and a tour of the facility, childbirth preparation classes, newborn care and CPR, sibling preparation programs, grandparent orientations, breastfeeding seminars, and new mothers' support groups.

In addition, free private preconceptional health screenings are offered. Call Familyborn at 683-5100 for class schedules.

long-term capital budget for library expansion. Mr. Frakt's resolution commits the Township to an equal amount, even though the longstanding agreement between the Township and Borough on library cost sharing calls for a split on both capital and operating costs according to rateables, which currently are at a two-thirds, one-third ratio between the two municipalities.

How to achieve changes in cost sharing and in parking accessibility for Township residents were discussed at length among Township Committee members before the vote was taken on Mr. Frakt's resolution. Laurence Glasberg favored setting a meeting with Borough Council at which those two issues — and only those issues — would be discussed.

Sharon Bilanin suggested it was only reasonable for Borough and Township to sit down and discuss cost sharing because more than 20 years had passed since the original agreement was made and the Township had changed since then. "We shouldn't look at these formulas as sacred cows," Ms. Bilanin said.

She pointed out that there are added benefits for the downtown merchants in having the library downtown and posed the question of how the Township could share in these benefits.

"I have a problem looking at the cost sharing of the library only," Mayor Phyllis Marchand countered. Ms. Bilanin disagreed. "We have 17 joint agencies. I don't think we can look at all the agencies all across the board. Each one is structured differently."

Mayor Marchand said accessibility was extremely important. "The revenue Township residents pay to parking meters and parking tickets is used to benefit Borough taxpayers," she said. "The library isn't getting any of that revenue."

Ratio Set in 1960

Michelle Tuck said she was amenable to the library being downtown but her concerns were cost sharing and accessibility. "Where does it say that the Township pays two-thirds, the Borough one-third?" she asked.

Attorney Edwin Schmierer told her that the ratio is established in the agreement that set up the library. Township Administrator James Pascale commented that the original agreement, which dates back to 1960, based the cost sharing ratio on circulation. A revised agreement, executed in 1965, put the cost sharing on a rateable basis, where it has remained ever since.

"If that's a previous obligation it may not be negotiable," Ms. Tuck remarked, adding that she would want a commitment from the Borough that some block of time would be free parking for Township library users.

As Committee began discussing possible revisions to Mr. Frakt's four-point resolution, Harry Levine, who has acted as a volunteer consultant to the library, spoke from the audience to suggest to Committee that the resolution had the potential to create more problems with the Borough.

"It's implying you want less of a financial impact," Mr. Levine said. "If you should be paying more, are you going to be willing to acknowledge that?" he asked. "Don't signal that you will pay an amount equal to the Borough. That indicates a 50-50 split. There is no rational argument for paying half and half."

According to a memorandum on library use, circulation and parking prepared by Jacquelyn Thresher, library director, for Township Committee, the Princeton Public Library has 21,272 resident cardholders. Of this number, 60 percent or 12,760 are Township residents and 40 percent or 8,512 are Borough residents. Monthly circulation figures from January, 1993 through September, 1994 show the Borough percentage hovering at 34 to 37 percent, while Township circulation varies from 61 to 64 percent.

Be Careful What You Do

Ms. Thresher was also in the audience and she warned Committee, "Be careful what you do." She said that either municipality can dissolve a joint agency agreement on its own, by vote of its voters. When that happens the other municipality has to immediately form a municipal library of its own or become part of the County library system. She also said that municipalities served by County libraries must pay a special library tax, which neither the Borough and Township pays currently.

In her memorandum she writes that if the Princetons were served by the County Library at this time, the rate charged for the current budget year would be $543,955 for the Borough and $1,092,885 for the Township. She points out that this is more than the current amount of support of the joint library by either municipality — 14.7 percent more for the Borough, 18.7 percent more for the Township.

After Township Committee declined to vote on the library site and also cancelled a joint meeting to resolve that issue, Borough Mayor Marvin Reed suggested the Borough might want to consider becoming part of the Mercer County library system. With the backing of Borough Council, Mayor Reed has invited Mercer County Executive Robert Prunetti to make a presentation on the County system. The date for that presentation has been set for December 6.

Both Ms. Tuck and Mayor Marchand said Monday night they were adamantly opposed to the Princeton Public Library becoming part of the County system.

After Mr. Frakt's resolution was approved by voice vote (without a roll call), Mayor Marchand said she would see to it that the resolution is speedily conveyed to Borough Council. Committee also looked at several different joint meeting dates suggested by Borough Council and agreed on several

The alternatives suggested are this Tuesday, which is on the schedule as a regular Township Committee meeting; Wednesday, November 2; Wednesday, November 9; and Monday, November 14, also a regular Committee meeting.

Pool Repairs Okayed

In other business, Committee reluctantly approved a $100,000 bond ordinance to pay for repairs to the Community Park Pool. The Township will be reimbursed one third of the cost according to the cost sharing ratio based on rateables governing the operation of the Joint Recreation Department.

However, Committee asked Jack Roberts to obtain a second opinion on the severity of the problem and the method of addressing it. Several members of Committee reiterated their concern that they received the information that there was a problem with the pool surface cracking and how much it would cost so late in the year.

Committee opened a public hearing on a bond ordinance for the replacement and repair of sidewalks and driveway aprons along a portion of Prospect Avenue between Riverside Drive East and Riverside Drive West. Several residents asked the engineer to come take another look to see if the sidewalks needed as much replacement as had been stipulated, and it was agreed that Township Engineer Robert V. Kiser would meet with them on site.

In still other business, Committee approved a four-percent across-the-board salary increase for Township non-union employees. They exempted themselves from any increase.

Committee authorized an application to the Small Business Administration for a grant in the amount of $10,775 to pay for the replacement of 59 trees lost to storm damage, aging and road realignment. The grant requires a 45 percent local match, which would be made up with in-kind services and $2,647 from the Shade Tree Commission.

Committee also authorized a professional services agreement with a geotechnical engineering and environmental consulting firm in South Bound Brook to do test borings in the vicinity of the new municipal facility. A professional services agreement with a coordinator for the Academic Success Today Program at Corner House was also approved.

Incumbent Republican Ray Wadsworth Running With Arnold Smolens for Borough Council Seats

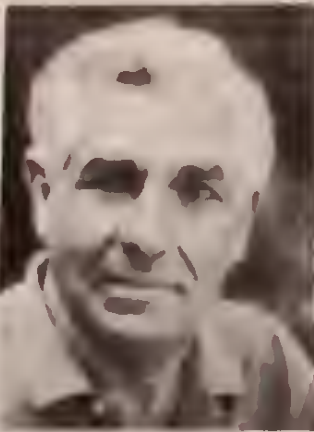

Incumbent Councilman Ray Wadsworth is seeking his second term on the Borough's governing body. His running mate, Arnold Smolens, is making his second bid for Borough office. The two will face Democratic opponents Mark Freda and Arthur Saylor in the November 8 balloting. If they win, they would be the only two Republicans out of six members of Council.

Ray Wadsworth, 61, a resident of Spruce Street, is retired from Elizabethtown Water Company, where he was employed for 26 years. He is owner of two stores in the Central Business District, Wadsworth's Gourmet Bakery and The Flower Market. Since becoming the only Republican member of Borough Council three years ago, Mr. Wadsworth has served on the Public Works Committee, Recreation Board, Welfare Board, and Shade Tree Commission. He is also a volunteer firefighter.

Mr. Wadsworth, who said he has lived most of his life in Princeton, said he hadn't planned to run again because of the time it took to operate his two stores. "But lots of letters and phone calls convinced me I was making a difference on Borough Council."

He said that he was out on the streets all the time, and that he sees most of what is going on. "I call the Police Department sometimes if I see something, or I call the Borough Administrator, Tom Shannon. I want to be out there to serve the people of this town."

Keeping taxes down is a major concern of his. Mr. Wadsworth feels that retirees on fixed incomes are particularly affected by higher taxes.

Ray Wadsworth

"Most of them have lived here all their lives, and they're being pushed out," he said. "We have to keep taxes down. The State has to come in and help us."

The 1995 Borough budget will probably have to be reduced, he said. Although he indicated that he had some idea where these cuts should be made, he didn't want to be specific at this point. "We'll talk about it during the budget discussion," he said.

Mr. Wadsworth agrees with the current Council policy of looking at each position after someone resigns or retires. He also wants the School District to tighten its belt. "Their budget is high."

The Councilman hopes that the renovations that are needed to bring the Arts Council Building into compliance with the federal Americans With Disabilities Act might cost less than the amount currently estimated.

He raised the possibility of installing a plywood ramp and a staircase wheelchair lift, instead of an elevator. The Borough, he said, should continue to maintain the building, which it owns, while the Arts Council raises funds for the ADA work.

"I don't want to see that building go the same way as the Chambers Street firehouse," said Mr. Wadsworth, which he noted was sold for considerably less than had been expected because of the level of its disrepair.

He noted that the Valley Road building had not been kept in good condition, and said that Princeton also had to look at its firehouses.

"If there is snow and ice, the roof at Hook & Ladder might cave in," he said. "We have got to move on it soon."

The only way the Borough could sell the Arts Council building is to auction it, as it did with the Chambers Street firehouse. "If that building were to be auctioned off, it would have to go to the highest bidder," said Mr. Wadsworth. "I don't want to see an office building. It would ruin the neighborhood. The Princeton Medical Center has ruined the neighborhood. It was supposed to be a community medical center."

Mr. Wadsworth agrees with the Borough's efforts to substitute rehabilitated housing for some new construction in fulfilling its affordable housing obligation. "I don't want to see buildings in the Borough left empty," he said. "We should rehabilitate them before they get too bad."

Mr. Wadsworth sees his role as that of a watchdog for Princeton, and says that, even if he doesn't get re-elected, he would still be out on the streets fighting for the people of the town.

THE U-STORE OFFERS THE BEST IN CONTEMPORARY FICTION:

The Rendezvous and Other Stories. Patrick O'Brian. W.W. Norton, $22.00.

Patrick O'Brian has emerged, in the opinion of many, as one of the greatest novelists now writing in English. His fame rests mainly on the epic Aubrey/Maturin stories, which Richard Snow, in the New York Times, has called "the best historical novels ever written."

Few readers are aware that O'Brian first made his reputation as a writer of short stories. Collected here for the first time are twenty-seven stories that O'Brian wishes to preserve: stories of uncommon lyricism and beauty that will confirm his rightful place in the front rank of short story writers as well as of novelists.

The stories range in tone from the humorous to the dramatic; each story is a showcase for O'Brian's fresh and meticulous prose, and each story reaffirms his sympathetic understanding of human passion and suffering. This collection proves that O'Brian is not simply the master of a genre, but an author who will long be honored as one of our most eminent literary figures.

GOP Candidate

Arnold Smolens, a Mercer Street resident, is retired from Chemical Bank, formerly Princeton Bank and Trust. He was a senior credit analyst and credit review officer.

The recipient of a B.S. in economics from the University of Pennsylvania and an M.A. in political science from the University of Michigan, the 73-year-old World War II Air Force Veteran is concerned about controlling expenditures and taxes in the Borough.

Arnold Smolens

"A number of retirees have told me that if taxes go any higher, they won't be able to stay in Princeton," he said.

Mr. Smolens would like to look at consolidating some Borough services and reducing staff by attrition. He also advocates doing a feasibility study of certain departments of the Borough, Township, and Lawrence Township, beginning with the public works department.

"The road department alone accounts for 62 percent of capital expenditures in the Borough," he said. "I found when the two Princetons and Lawrence worked together in repairing two miles of Quaker Road, $105,000 was saved just in materials."

Mr. Smolens said other departments, too, could be studied. "A precedent has been established in consolidating services, including the library, Fire Department, schools, and affordable housing."

He said that Small Cities grants should be turned to for help in meeting ADA requirements, and noted that the federal government has established an empowerment fund for urban and rural areas. "The Borough should apply for these funds."

"I think that, if possible, the Arts Council should be able to continue where it is," he said. "The cultural life of the Borough, like the cultural life of any city, is important."

Mr. Smolens believes, along with all current members of Council, that the library should be expanded at its present downtown location. New presences in town, he said, should be asked to participate in the library's fundraising efforts. These would include the Glenmede Trust Co., which is scheduled to move into the former Chambers Street firehouse.

Mr. Smolens does not want the renovation of the basement floor of Borough Hall to proceed at this time. Instead, he wants the Borough to do only that portion of the work that is required to meet ADA mandates.

"The rest of the work should be postponed for several years," he said. "The interest on Borough debt accounts for 55 percent of Borough taxes."

Mr. Smolens feels that salary increases for Borough staff in 1995 should be equivalent only to a cost-of-living adjustment. This year, he said, the cost-of-living increase amounted to 2.8 percent.

Looking at the prospect of having the Borough rehabilitate housing in lieu of building new affordable units, Mr. Smolens cautioned that sometimes rehabilitation can be more costly than new construction. He wants the Borough to study these costs very closely before proceeding.

"I have made 700 calls and met people who have lived in Princeton all their lives," he said. "People have left because of taxes. As far as I know everyone who lives in Princeton likes it. People don't want to leave."

An Urban Planner Is Democratic Candidate for Township Committee

Stephen O'Connor entered the race for the single seat on Township Committee when he was asked to be the Democratic candidate after Carl Bosch withdrew from the race.

He is trying to finish work for a Ph.D. in urban planning at Rutgers University and he knew he would be going to Kenya on a mission for Operation Smile, an international organization that raises money to provide reconstructive plastic surgery for children with facial deformities. Moreover, it was only five or six weeks before the election.

"People I care deeply about who are very committed to the community approached me and asked me to run," Mr. O'Connor says, adding that he has a hard time saying "no" to people he cares about.

Mr. O'Connor moved to Princeton in 1988, when he became vice president of Matrix Development Group of Cranbury with responsibility for the company's residential and marketing divisions. He is a 1977 graduate of Rutgers' Cook College with a B.S. degree cum laude in landscape architecture.

Married to a fellow landscape architect student the day after graduation, he took a job in Chicago with a small civil engineering firm involved in the design of small subdivisions. The experience of working with contractors in the field to manipulate the site plan to preserve significant environmental features was a valuable one.

"It taught me that environmentalism and development can be combined," Mr. O'Connor says. "Recognizing that development was going to happen, I realized that there ought to be people involved in it who will do it well."

Harvard Graduate School

He enrolled in a program at the Harvard Graduate School of Design which combined community planning with courses in real estate finance and development and planning law. He earned his MLA in 1981, a time when interest rates were at 18 percent and jobs were scarce. Nonetheless, the combination of disciplines allowed him to compete successfully for a position with Arvida Corporation, a premier real estate developer in Florida.

After several years developing and managing a large resort complex in the Boca Raton area, Mr. O'Connor nor was recruited by a Pennsylvania firm and two years later by Matrix, a commercial and industrial developer looking to expand into residential development. He was involved in the Forsgate Country Club project in Jamesburg, the reconfiguring of two golf courses, master planning of 700 homes and execution of the first phase.

Meanwhile, in 1989 when the slump in the real estate market had slowed the sales of market rate townhouses at Griggs Farm and the project was experiencing problems paying off construction costs, Kate Litvack, then Township mayor, asked Mr. O'Connor to lend his expertise in tackling the problems. Before Orleans was retained to sell the remaining units, he brought in professionals and redid the models, the sales center, some of the landscaping and the brochure in an effort to reposition the project.

For Matrix he was conceptualizing and executing homes in the $350,000 range at Forsgate Country Club while at the same time engaging himself with the challenges associated with Griggs Farm. He says, "For the first time I was able to see that you could truly be creative in the world of real estate and community development and still have a social mission."

A Need for Professionals

When the recession hit in 1991, Mr. O'Connor says he was faced with a difficult personal decision. "I was more and more drawn to the social aspects of housing than I was to the higher-end resort aspects of housing. Working with Princeton Community Housing, I saw the complete dedication of those people but I also understood there is a real need for professionals like myself who've had a level of experience that could help on the affordable housing side."

He went to Rutgers to work out a program in urban planning with a concentration in housing at the new Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Policy Development. The switch to becoming a full time student forced him to resign his job with Matrix and sell the house on Laurel Circle in which he and his wife and two children had been living. He purchased a three-bedroom unit at Griggs Farm and lived there with his family for 2½ years before purchasing a small ranch house on The Great Road.

In 1992, a half a year into his Ph.D. studies, Mr. O'Connor was selected by Gov. Jim Florio to become the first executive director of the New Jersey Housing Assistance Corporation, the development subsidiary of the Housing Mortgage Finance Agency. "I took the $5 million in seed capital granted to the agency and looked to go out to try to leverage it to the best of my ability to create as many affordable housing opportunities in the state as I could," he reports.

"Within the first year and a half, we had identified 1800 units we were attempting to purchase." Seen as a Florio appointee, he was asked to resign last June by the current Republican administration.

Mr. O'Connor believes that his experience in the process of community development is an asset he would bring to Township Committee if elected. "While real estate development might be a nasty word, an education in design and planning teaches you to be very process-oriented." Mr. O'Connor says, "where you try to examine a problem, break it into its simplest parts, solve the parts and work your way to solving the problem."

"You engage a lot of people in that process because you learn very quickly you need to surround yourself with people who are competent and capable in order to solve the problems. Having the experience of working with multi-million dollar budgets, you have to become fiscally adept in order to succeed," he adds.

Since leaving state government, Mr. O'Connor has continued to work with non-profit groups, helping them find opportunities that are good for affordable housing.

Library Expansion Issue

When asked what the issues are facing the Township, Mr. O'Connor mentions the expansion of the Princeton Public Library first. He says he has a personal bias for keeping the library downtown, but he also feels there is a need to take a look at the equitable split of financial responsibility for the library between Borough and Township.

"I'd like to see the library improved, first class, high quality, in town. We ought to make that commitment, start the fund-raising efforts, see how much private capital we can attract."

ton Public Library first. He says he has a personal bias for keeping the library downtown, but he also feels there is a need to take a look at the equitable split of financial responsibility for the library between Borough and Township.

"I'd like to see the library improved, first class, high quality, in town. We ought to make that commitment, start the fund-raising efforts, see how much private capital we can attract, then sit down and hash out whether a two-thirds, one-third split is right based on usage — or whether you have to bring in other kinds of realizations, such as the increase in revenue the Borough is going to receive as a result of the structure being there."

Next he mentions the expansion of the Princeton Medical Center garage. "You have an entity, an organization that by right can be of a certain size and is looking to anticipate future growth," Mr. O'Connor says. "And you have people in the neighborhood concerned about how that will change the character of the neighborhood. The level of compromise to achieve both goals is a process that needs a lot of thought and is not to be taken lightly."

He supports the decision of Township Committee to build a new police and municipal complex. "If the Valley Road building were of historical significance I would advocate trying to preserve it as a landmark. But there is no justification for that. It is just a very, very inefficient building."

Mr. O'Connor thinks the next round of affordable housing requirements is going to be an interesting and difficult question for the Township to deal with in light of the experience at Griggs Farm. He thinks the number for the next six-year cycle is going to be in the 130-unit range and suggests the Township should try to meet it by some combination of rehabilitation of existing structures that will qualify for affordable housing and participation in a regional contribution agreement.

Turning to municipal services, Mr. O'Connor notes that in municipal government, where 75 to 80 percent of the budget is in payroll and associated expenses, "there's often difficulty in being able to balance the levels of services that people require and the need to be able to keep costs under control."

"Township Is Blessed"

"I think the Township is blessed with a good solid nucleus of professional people who provide us with good administrative services," he continues. "You want to be able to compensate those folks properly, so they stay here and continue to dedicate themselves to the Township."

Pointing out that Princeton Township has 10 percent more roads than 10 years ago with 10 percent less staff to take care of them, he says, "That's a tribute to Jim Pascale and Bob Kiser, who are sitting there doing more with less resources. Unfortunately that [situation] is just going to exacerbate as we feel the real effects of cuts in the state income tax. More of a burden is probably going to be placed on us, and we'll probably receive less from the state."

With so little time in which to campaign, Mr. O'Connor is counting on the network of friends he has made through his children and the visibility from his activities on behalf of organizations like Operation Smile, March of Dimes, and the Friendly Sons and Daughters of St. Patrick, as well as the Princeton Democratic organization to gain him votes in the upcoming election.

Consolidation Is Solution To Problem of Library

To the Editor, Town Topics: I'm saddened by the tone of the news articles that Township Committee (and Princeton University) is unfair to Princeton Borough regarding financial formulas, joint agencies and the library.

Derogatory headlines describing Mayor Marchand and her Committee may make for good reading but doesn't make for good solutions.

One Borough Council person was quoted, "We have yet to find the Township Committee receptive." Township has voted repeatedly for one Princeton while the Borough has defeated every consolidation effort over a 40-year period.

I have never understood the Borough's unbending philosophy against consolidation. Had it passed, all problems of today would already be solved.

The hope for One Princeton dates to the 1950s. Joint agency contracts began in the 1960s with the sole intent of gradual consolidation.

Joint agencies come under the aegis of the Princeton in which it is located. It's easy financially (as with the $100,000 swimming pool repair) for the Borough to prematurely appropriate $34,000, forcing the Township to spend its two-thirds share of $66,000. This is not a good precedent in view of the existing formula commitments.

The same is true of the Borough's vote of $2 million for the library, presuming then the Township must vote $4 million. And this also assumes that all the same taxpayers will be able to ante up another $6 million (or more).

Living in Princeton Shouldn't Cost More

To the Editor, Town Topics: Near the end of David Blair's recent letter to the editor attempting to justify the new Municipal Building (TOWN TOPICS, October 5), he says "it is a privilege to live in Princeton, and while one does, one must pay for the privilege."

Their attitude is exactly what is wrong with the present Township Committee. Those of us who grew up in this town still consider it our home and don't feel what we need is to pay extra for the "privilege" to keep on living here.

We don't like being scolded for fighting the big tax increases that are driving many of us out of the community. In many cases, retired parents have already been forced to leave their homes. They couldn't afford the "privilege" of staying in Princeton.

The new Municipal Building is supposed to cost us $8.9 million. If you add the interest we have to pay on the loan, it is closer to $16 million that we have to ante up. There must be a better way.

On election day I'm voting for Michael Giardino. At least he seems to understand our problem.

MICHAEL PERNA

in private funds to complete the project.

Township Committee cannot be faulted for using caution and responsibility. In fact, it would have been far more receptive to both communities, had there been a referendum on the library (and also on the municipal building).

In the 1960s, Township parents were dismayed by the Borough control of Princeton High School, allowing no input on curriculum, teachers, students or administration. We formed a group to explore building our own school on Cherry Hill Road. Fortunately, regionalization was put to a vote. The Borough voted against the Township's wishes on the first vote, but then agreed on the second vote; ergo the present school system.

I suppose a separate library could be considered, but the Township's goal has always been one community.

And if the Borough decides to join the Mercer County system, will there be a two-thirds pay-out to Township for its share of the present library?

Consolidation is and has

Princeton Police Need Authority to Mandate That Disputes Be Resolved Through Mediation

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Henry Pannell has devoted 20 years of his life to the people, adults and especially the children, and the facilities of Princeton Public Housing.

We have tremendous respect for Henry Pannell's efforts to create a sense of community here in this neighborhood, to provide a sense of family and guidance. Sadly, even the best of us get pushed to the limit sometimes and react badly in certain instances.

The incident described in the press (TOWN TOPICS, October 19), and the charges brought by the mother of the teenager against Henry as well as the police charges against the four youths might have been resolved within and by the appropriate people of the community. Had there been an opportunity to take this problem to a mediator for conflict resolution and counselling, the parents and the children involved might have had an opportunity to work out their difficulties in a much more constructive way, learning through discussion and counselling.

We understand that in Lawrenceville the police have the authority to mandate that disputes be taken first to mediation. We suggest Princeton might consider such a rule. By taking this matter to the level of the authorities and the press, we have made it more difficult to build community through understanding and caring for those who might have been affected.

always been the real solution. It would take great cooperation by a number of good Princetonians, and it may not be easy, but it could be done.

Why not put everything on hold for the moment? The library is still operating okay. There is parking. Maybe all the "consolidation experts" could be reactivated to see if this isn't finally THE TIME it could happen.

If it can't, then let's have a solid group review the joint agency contracts and financial formulas and community incomes. Are the formulas valid today?

Unfortunately, what will really happen is that both elected bodies will continue to appropriate and spend, finish their tenures, move out of town and leave those of us able to remain here, with enormous financial commitments and all the same prob-

Select Library Site Without Delay So That Fund Raising May Begin

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is an excerpt of my remarks to the Trustees of the Princeton Public Library at our Board meeting on October 19. Please note that these remarks were prepared prior to the announcement that Sunrise Retirement Homes & Communities had entered into a contract to purchase the potential site for a new and expanded library at Terhune Road and Harrison Street. Despite this, I believe it is important to share this information with your readers at this time.

"Since the Joint Meeting on Library Expansion held on September 29, I have had a series of conversations about the expansion of the Library which I want to report on to you. First, to both our Mayors I have said that I deeply regret the impasse that has occurred and the subsequent escalating tensions between the Borough and the Township.

From the Library's standpoint, nothing has changed since the Joint Meeting. The Trustees and staff feel that we can have an excellent Library at either location. The Trustees support the downtown site because we recognize that there is a strong sentiment to protect the heart of the community and we appreciate that the Library is a major contributor to the vitality of the Central Business District.

Further, to be frank, we anticipated that without a compelling reason to move from the Central Business District (specifically, much lower costs, or much better Library, neither of which were reported by our consultants) it was highly unlikely Borough Council ever would agree to another site and without the support of both municipalities we cannot expand the Library at all.

As I stated at the meeting on the 29th, the Trustees feel strongly that it is in the best interest of the Library to select a site without further delay and thus allow the Trustees to proceed with a feasibility study that will help determine the fundraising capacity of the Library and the gap that will have to be filled by public funds.

In my various conversations, I have refused to "take sides" between the municipalities and said only that I was bitterly disappointed that the Library seemed to be turning into some kind of political football.

The calls of support I have received from people who love the Library and whose reactions to the altercation between the municipalities range from discouraged to disgusted, have been wonderful.

I thank my fellow trustees for their calm and clear-headed leadership in these perilous times. I am confident that this, too, will pass and that we will move on to the next step toward Library expansion within the relatively near future.

I am grateful also to the Friends of the Princeton Public Library who have rallied to the cause of Library expansion so energetically and effectively. The outpouring of support for the Library from more than 120 members of the community at the Joint Meeting on the 29th was extraordinary. Whether people favored the current location or the Terhune Road site, the comments generally were thoughtful and well-articulated.

And finally, I thank the Library Director and Assistant Director for their calm and clear-headed leadership. I know they and the Library staff must feel that the Library is under siege. I am sure I speak for the Trustees as a whole when I say that the reason we press on so purposefully is that we have a superb Library and superb staff. We firmly believe that it is in the best interest of our beloved Princeton (note the singular) to provide the means to allow the Library to flourish and, as Trustees, we will be the best advocates we know how to be to advance the cause of the Library.

Problem of Valley Road Solved by Running Away

To the Editor, Town Topics:

It seems to me that the Princeton Township Committee has solved one of their most pressing problems by the simple expedient of running away. Paying the School Board up to $400,000 and returning the Valley Road Municipal Building to them lets the Committee off the hook of having to decide what to do with the structure.

That is a great solution for the politicians, but don't forget that it is our money they transferred from our pocket to the other, and that the Township taxpayers still must foot the bill for whatever the School board decides to do with the building.

Michael Giardino was right on target the other day when he said their solution consisted of "walking out the front door and leaving the taxpayers behind."

We need fewer big spenders and more people like Giardino on the Township Committee. Maybe we can improve things this November 8 at the polls.

Wadsworth Turned I.Q. Disaster into a Net Plus

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Each day seems to bring out some new fact or opinion on the movie I.Q. I feel that it was Ray Wadsworth's caring for the town that helped turn a potential disaster into a net plus.

It was Ray, ever mindful of our traffic problems, who insisted that Nassau Street could only be closed on Sundays for filming. He also responded to and helped solve the traffic jams that did develop. He realized that the moviemakers were importing supplies from out of state, ignoring the local merchants. He showed the moviemakers how to get the needed supplies and services locally at prices fair to all.

Through it all Ray constantly and tirelessly worked to allow everyone to do his own thing with a minimum disruption to the town. That's why I am grateful that we have Ray on Borough Council because he cares for Princeton and should be re-elected in November.

Tile Better Than Carpet For Middle School Floor

To the Editor, Town Topics:

An overwhelming number of parents and staff members at John Witherspoon Middle School (JWMS) are opposed to the installation of new carpeting there because of carpeting's well-documented short and long-term ill health effects (for starters, see the report by Princeton parent Suzanne Justice entitled "On Polluted Indoor Air and Carpeting JWMS School Environmental Health").

A large proportion of children who attend JWMS suffer from asthma and other allergy related illnesses as documented by the JWMS health office. I think it is shocking to know that many parents have been forced to send their children to school each day on medication to cope with the unhealthy environment at JWMS.

Carpeting further aggravates medical conditions. Additionally, many children who do not currently suffer from allergic reactions can develop such conditions from repeated exposure to environmental pollutants such as those produced by carpeting. Carpeting, even when strictly cared for, can contain high levels of dust mites, mold and pollen, and allergenic cockroach dust, to say nothing of the toxic chemical fumes emitted from new carpeting.

The new carpet smell may not be noticeable to many people after a couple weeks but even the newer, lower-level volatile emissions (so-called hypo-allergenic) carpets continue to off-gas these fumes for much longer. Furthermore, the loose fibers that are generated from carpeting tax the ventilation system. And, of course, since the building occupants constantly inhale all of these pollutants, they tax human respiratory and immunological systems as well.

The parents and staff at JWMS want the School Board and the Superintendent to install a hard-surface washable flooring material, such as vinyl tile. There are many options in vinyl flooring today, including tile that have exceptional sound-dampening qualities.

It is true that there are benefits and drawbacks of both carpeting and tile, but the advantages of tile greatly outweigh those of carpeting. The taxpayers of Princeton should also know that carpeting is the more expensive option, both to install and to maintain properly.

The Administration and School Board have taken steps to alleviate some of the causes of the poor air quality at JWMS and we applaud them for their efforts. But,

Preserve the Battlefields Of Revolutionary War

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Congressman Dick Zimmer of New Jersey (12th Congressional District) and State Assemblyman Jeff Warsh (District 18) toured Princeton Battlefield State Park on Saturday, October 8, and met with representatives and supporters of various preservation and volunteer organizations to discuss the Congressman's bill before the House of Representatives, H.R. 4257.

This bill would create a commission to survey Revolutionary War battlefields to determine which ones still retain their historic value and to recommend ways for these battlefields to be preserved.

Congressman Zimmer commented on a 1990 law passed by Congress that created a commission to survey Civil War battlefields and recommend a plan for the protection of those sites that still retain their historic significance.

Unfortunately, said Zimmer, Revolutionary War battlefields remain unprotected in many instances and to allow these sites to be lost or destroyed would be a disservice to current and future generations who would like to commemorate and comprehend the struggle to create this nation. Historic sites convey a deep understanding of events that one cannot get from reading a book.

Assemblyman Warsh spoke in support of H.R. 4257 and has presented legislation in the State Assembly in support of such projects and for the protection of open space in New Jersey.

Representatives from groups such as Greenways, Friends of Princeton Open Space, Friends of Monmouth Battlefield, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society, and other organizations expressed their interest and support in the passage of this bill.

Those interested in more information may contact Dick Zimmer's office at 135 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrenceville 08648, or call 895-1559.

Show Our 'Gratitude': Boycott I.Q. Premiere

To the Editor, Town Topics:

So big-hearted Paramount has finally anted up the generous sum of $10,000 to the two Princetons.

This is what we get after months of disruption: Travel patterns impeded, precipitous road closings and diversion of our police forces from more urgent duties.

To show our gratitude for this offering, I propose that we boycott the premiere of I.Q. and send an equivalent sum to those who are planning to use the film as a benefit for their organizations.

Blacks Not Only Victims Of Undeserved Criticism

To the Editor, Town Topics:

In support of and to bear out what Mr. McGowan has written [TOWN TOPICS, October 12] I would like to add the following.

The asides, innuendo and slander with which the "Uncle and Auntie Toms and Tominas" destroy individuals in this town is not restricted to the Afro-American community but is a historical phenomenon which finds its roots in what was one of the greatest experiments the world has ever seen — the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Mr. McGowan is not the only or most tragic victim of the easy way in which individuals in this or any community can be harmed or even ruined by undeserved criticism and negative commentary.

In the days of Thomas Jefferson (and I'm sure there are some in this community who remember those days, Ha, Ha), almost any terrible thing could be said of a person "in the name of the people." At other times being "aristocratic" in demeanor was a crime in the first degree and persons were probably ruined on a regular basis for said offense.

It is said that American bigotry consists of each new group to enter the country becoming the victim of discrimination by the group that immediately preceded it in immigrating to these shores.

Thus, the Dutch and English looked down on the Germans, the Germans looked down on the Irish, the Irish looked down on the Italians and Jews, the Italians and Jews looked down on the Puerto Ricans and the northern blacks looked down on the Negro immigrants from the South and, generally, the blacks adopted the ways and prejudices of the families they were bound to which, over time, were a mix of European nationalities and religions including Jewish and Catholic.

I hope this revelation helps Mr. McGowan in his struggles. I know it has helped me come to terms with sometimes "fishbowl," sometimes "pressure cooker" existence of life in Princeton Borough.

Give an Independent A Chance to Fight Taxes

To the Editor, Town Topics:
I've spoken to a good percentage of Princeton Township voters and the most frequent comment I hear is: "Our taxes keep going up, but we don't get any services. Where does all the money go?"

It would be easy to say that this is the fault of those in office. I won't do that. Because the truth is that local officials have less control over property taxes than they used to. Government in Washington and Trenton, not just Princeton, has caused the problem.

Over the last 20 years Congress has shifted programs and services from the federal government to local and state governments. But not the money to pay for them. While the federal government pretends to cut taxes or spending, all they are doing is shifting the burden right on along to you, the homeowner.

Nationally, local real estate tax collections between 1980 and 1991 spiraled from $66 billion to $162 billion — an increase of 145 percent — the highest rate of increase of any tax in the nation. In 1950 all local and state tax collections amounted to 45 percent of federal tax collections. By 1991, that figure surged to 82 percent. If current trends continue, real estate taxes will surpass federal income taxes as the largest tax source of revenue by the year 2000.

You see the results in Princeton. Our taxes are rising faster than the rate of inflation. In 1994 taxes in Princeton Township went up 4.8%. (County taxes rose 5.8%). In the last five years, Real Estate taxes have gone up 37.1% in Princeton Township. A Township taxpayer with a house assessed at $300,000 would have paid $9,080 in property taxes in 1988. The same homeowner paid $12,520 this year. The average tax paid in Princeton Township is $7,026 per household — the highest average in Mercer County.

When it comes to taxes, we've heard it all before from the national campaigns. "Read my lips. No new taxes." "I promise I will not raise taxes." "I have a detailed plan to cut your taxes." "I have a ten-point plan to cut your taxes."

The only problem with these promises is that they are inevitably followed by higher taxes and fewer services. The money only seems to go to the special interests

There Are Good Reasons for Municipalities To Charge High Interest on Uncollected Taxes

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to answer Carl Mayer's proposal on Taxpayer's Bill of Rights (TOWN TOPICS, October 12).

For those who are not familiar with the collection of tax receipts, I would like to point out a few specifics.

The reason for the high interest rate due on uncollected taxes, above a certain amount, is because if the taxes are not collected, a larger amount has to be put in reserve for uncollected taxes in the following year's budget. This automatically causes the taxes to increase the next year.

We have to discourage people who hope to earn more on their funds elsewhere by not paying their taxes and only paying a low rate of interest to the tax collector. Taxes must be collected promptly to save costs to the town.

As far as paying taxes by credit card, the card companies take their cut out of each transaction right off the top, the town's take is reduced, and taxes would have to be increased to make up the difference. I don't believe there is a statutory provision for imposing a surcharge on those who use credit cards.

CHRISTINE D. ST. JOHN former Borough Tax Collector Prospect Avenue

who rig the tax system in their favor.

I'm not going to make any "pie-in-the-sky" promises. All I will promise is to work hard, as I have in the past, to scrutinize expenditures and to do more with less. I'll give you straight talk and straight answers. No grandiose promises or quick fixes.

And I know there are things we can do regardless of what happens at the federal or state levels. Municipal spending has increased by about 8 percent for each of the past five years and that is too much.

I am the only candidate in the race who has made any proposals to help our tax situation here in the Township. I have written about the need for a "Taxpayer Bill of Rights" in the Township that would guarantee that our tax bills and budgets become more understandable and give us the knowledge to evaluate the performance of our elected officials.

I have proposed that when Township residents are late paying taxes, that they are charged a market rate of interest, rather than the current inflated rate. I am willing to entertain innovative proposals like allowing elderly residents who are having difficulty meeting property tax payments to defer payment until sale of their home. I want to allow taxpayers to pay by credit card. And I promise to more aggressively pursue commercial developers who are delinquent in their tax payments. I want the citizens to decide in a referendum which capital projects to support and which to reject.

And my first act in office will be to propose offering a reward for idents from Township residents that save Township taxpayers money. We have to get people more involved in the process of local democracy and solving our local budgetary problems. We also can save expenses by motivating volunteer organizations, students in school performing community service, and the University to work on ways to improve the Township.

Let's give an Independent a chance. Some healthy competition and fresh new ideas from a qualified Independent could just help improve our tax situation here in the Township. A vote for me is a vote to put an Independent voice and an Independent watchdog on Township Committee. And remember, Mayer rhymes with ... Fighting for the Taxpayer.

Organ Accompaniment For Silent Film of 1925

The original 1925 silent film Phantom of the Opera with live organ accompaniment, will be presented at the Princeton University Chapel on Friday, November 4 at 10. Former Radio City Music Hall organist David Messineo will create and provide the accompaniment on the University's 109-stop E.M. Skinner/N.P. Mander organ.

The classic film, starring Lon Chaney as the Phantom, is based on Gaston Leroux's horror novel. The plot revolves around the mysterious masked phantom of the Paris Opera House, who falls in love with the beautiful young soprano Christine. Much to the dismay of the Phantom, Opera House singer Raoul de Chagny attempts to win the affections of Christine.

Jealous of Raoul, the Phantom kidnaps Christine during a performance and takes her to his subterranean home. Raoul, guided by a Persian who has known the Phantom as a criminal, finds his way into the underground. The tale builds to a terrifying climax as the Phantom is chased through the catacombs of Paris.

Organist David Messineo will augment the chilling sensations and sensual moments in the story through the varied tone colors of the Chapel organ. Mr. Messineo is minister of music at the Glen Ridge Congregational Church where he directs a program of six choirs and a concert series. He teaches organ at Montclair State College and until recently was the associate director of music at Sacred Heart Cathedral in Newark. Beginning in

PHS Choir Theater Party

The Princeton High School Choir will use the 4 p.m. performance of Tom Stoppard's A Rough Crossing at McCarter Theatre on Saturday, November 5, to raise funds for its 1995 European tour. The performance will be followed by a reception in the theatre's west lobby.

All proceeds will benefit the choir's trip to London, Paris and Princeton's Sister City, Colmar, France. Reservations must be made by this Wednesday, October 26.

The PHS Choir, under the direction of Charles Sundquist, is acknowledged as one of the best in the country. Last spring, the choir was invited to perform at the Kennedy Center as part of the "Festival of Gold" competition held in Washington, D.C. It is PHS Choir policy that all students will travel to Europe regardless of their individual ability to pay. For this reason additional funds are being sought to underwrite the cost of the tour.

Tickets for the PHS Choir Theater Party and Reception are available at $35 and $30 each. A special high school student ticket is also available for $10 with valid identification. Donor tickets at $50 each include acknowledgment in the European Tour program book. For more information, call Dan Bauer at 497-3998.

1979, he played the organ for the Christmas Show at Radio City Music Hall for several years.

Tickets to the horror movie, priced at $3 or $10 for families, will be available at the door of the Princeton University Chapel beginning at 9 on the night of the performance. For more information, call 258-3654.

Netherlands Ensemble In McCarter Dance Series

Netherlands Dance Theater 2 will make its McCarter Theatre debut on Tuesday at 8.

Under the artistic direction of the Czech choreographer Jiri Kylian, the artistry of the three companies of the "Nederlands Dans Theater" has received ovations from audiences throughout the world. NDT 2's company of young dancers, aged 17 to 21, exhibit passion, clarity, and technical assurance in an eclectic program.

On the program will be events in conjunction with Kylian's Un Ballo, set to the performances of Tom Stoppard's A Rough Crossing. Giscard's Rough Crossing. deon Obarzanek's Petrol-Head Lover, featuring formances will be on Saturday, November 5 at 4, and including bumpercars serving as tulus; Paul Lightfoot's Solitaire, set to music by J.S. Bach; and Kylian's Stamping Ground, inspired by Australian aboriginal dances, set to the music of Carlos Chavez.

Tickets are $23, $26 and $32. To charge by phone, call the McCarter Theatre box office at 683-8000.

Subscriptions are still on sale for Dance-At-McCarter Series 2 which includes Netherlands Dance Theater 2, Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater and Garth Fagan Dance. Dance 3-D subscriptions are also on sale. The lineup for Dance 3-D features Mark Morris Dance Group, David Parsons Dance Company and Daniel Ezralow & Friends.

For subscription information, call the subscription hotline at 683-8900.

Modern Dance Company In Program on Campus

Princeton University, Program in Theater & Dance will present Nicholas Rodriguez & DanceCompass on Saturday, November 5, at 8 in the Hagan Dance Studio, 185 Nassau Street. Admission is free.

The Montclair-based modern dance company will present a one-hour program of repertory followed by a question and answer period. Now celebrating its 10th season, the company is performing a statewide tour of New Jersey.

PERFORMING HERE: Nicholas Rodriguez, artistic director of DanceCompass, a modern dance company based in Montclair, will perform with his company Saturday, November 5, in the dance studio at 185 Nassau Street. The program is sponsored by Princeton University's Program in Theater and Dance.

Mr. Rodriguez's choreography has been hailed for its "singular blend of inventiveness and artistry." The company has been designated a Distinguished Arts Organization by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts for two consecutive years. DanceCompass appearances include such venues as the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Lincoln Center Out-of-Doors, Brooklyn Academy of Music and Jacob's Pillow.

Family Comedy Is Next At George St. Playhouse

Neil is sitting quietly at home one evening when, one by one, his relatives appear and unravel every shred of certainty from his life in the George Street Playhouse world premiere comedy Relativity. Written by Mark Stein and directed by George Street Playhouse Producing Artistic Director Gregory S. Hurst, Relativity previews at the New Brunswick theatre on Saturday, opens Friday, November 4, and closes on Sunday, November 20.

In this comedy, Neil's ordered, sedate life is systematically turned inside-out as a generation's worth of family secrets come tumbling down upon him in one evening. In this family portrait, the truths that define Neil's life become more and more hazy as he is confronted with his fact-shifting sister, his obsessive mother and his long-lost legendary cousin Kirby.

Relativity features Michael Rupert, who received the Tony Award for Best Performance in a Musical for Sweet Charity. It runs Tuesday through Saturday evenings at 8 and Sundays at 2 and 7. A 2 p.m. matinee is scheduled for Saturday, November 19. There is no 7 p.m. performance on November 20.

Ticket prices range from $18 to $30 and student, senior citizen and group discounts are available. For further information, call the George Street Playhouse box office at (908) 246-7717.

The theater is located at 9 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick.

Repertory Ballet Season To Open With Premiere

Returning from the first leg of its 11-state tour, American Repertory Ballet Company will officially open its 1994-95 season on Saturday, November 5, at 8 at the State Theatre in New Brunswick.

The program features the company premiere of "Raymonda pas de dix" staged by ARB ballet mistress and former South African ballerina Charla Genn. Ms. Genn has received critical acclaim for her staging of Sleeping Beauty at Jacob's Pillow and for other choreographic works. In South Africa she danced in a broad range of classical roles.

"Raymonda pas de dix," the frequently excerpted final dance in Petipa's complete Raymonda, is set to the Mazunov score. This classical piece embodies intricate variations for women "en pointe" with an energetic, dizzying style.

A revival of Artistic Director Septime Webre's And So It Goes and last season's Our Town by ARB ballet master Philip Jerry are also featured on the program.

Mr. Webre's quirky tale on the classical vocabulary. And So It Goes was premiered by American Repertory Ballet during the 1990-91 season while Mr. Webre was resident choreographer. It is set to Handel's concerti grossi.

Special receptions will mark the season's official opening. Patron tickets at $75 include cocktail reception at CoreStates Bank in New Brunswick, prime theatre seating and champagne/dessert reception after the show. A sponsor's ticket at $25 per person includes buffet reception before the show and front orchestra seating.

Single tickets are available at the State Theatre box office ranging from $12 to $22 for reserved seating. Call (908) 246-7469.

"Sorcerer's Apprentice"
At CT Haunted House

Creative Theatre's annual Haunted House presented at Arts Council of Princeton, 102 Witherspoon Street, will have an added treat this year to celebrate its 25th anniversary.

A participatory performance of The Sorcerer's Apprentice will be held for young people grades kindergarten through six. The production is a musical retelling of the original Grimm folktale adapted by Creative Theatre's composer Rita Asch, and former artistic director

Eloise Bruce.

The production will feature Ken Harper-Mosely, Sarah Paalman, Kendall Ridgeway and Peter Vanderburg of Creative Theatre's Acting Company, under the direction of Mr. Harper Mosely.

The Haunted House will run from 1 to 5 with The Sorcerer's Apprentice taking place at 2 and running approximately 50 minutes.

Tickets for the events are purchased separately from the Haunted House and cost $4. Reservations may be made by calling Creative Theatre at 924-3489, or tickets can be purchased at the door before 2 p.m.

AN EXTRA TREAT: Creative Theatre's Haunted House on Saturday will also feature a performance of "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" with Ken Harper-Mosely and three others from the Creative Theatre acting company. The performance will be at 2.

Cathedral Organist In Recital at Chapel

Andrew Nethsingha, England's youngest cathedral organist, will perform a program of Romantic works Tuesday at 8 at the Princeton University Chapel.

The program will open with the Allegro maestoso movement from Sir Edward Elgar's monumental Sonata in G Major and continue with Folk Tune of English composer Percy Whitlock. Next he will play Tuba Tune of Norman Cocker and then conclude the first half of the program with Herbert Howells' Rhapsody in D-flat Major.

After intermission, Mr. Nethsingha will perform Fantaisie in E-flat Major of Camille Saint-Saens and continue with Chant de May by Joseph Jongen. The program will conclude with the Final from Symphonie 1 of Louis Vierne.

Mr. Nethsingha, master of the choristers and organist at Truro Cathedral, performed a benefit concert here last year sponsored by Climb for the Cure. He received his early musical training as a chorister in Exeter Cathedral. From there, he won a music scholarship to Clifton College. He was made a fellow of the Royal College of Organists at the age of 18.

Tickets, priced at $10, seniors, $5, and students, free, will be available at the door of the Princeton University Chapel beginning at 7 on the night of the performance. For more information, call 258-3654.

Choreographed Suites Featured in Concert

Concert Royal, the period instrument ensemble under the direction of James Richman, will continue its "Baroque Favorites and

FROM BRITAIN: Andrew Nethsingha will play a program of Romantic works Tuesday at 8 on the Princeton University Chapel organ.

Rarities" series at Princeton University, with Bach, Handel, and the Dance, on Saturday, November 5, at 8. A pre-concert talk, "Choreographing the Baroque Masterworks," will be presented by the New York Baroque Dance Company's Artistic Director Catherine Turocy at 7.

Bach, Handel and the Dance will feature four orchestral suites by the Baroque masters, J.S. Bach and Handel. Bach's Orchestral Suite Nos. 1 and 2, and Handel's Chamber Suite from Water Music are set to three new ballets by Catherine Turocy while the choreography for Handel's Concerto Grosso Opus 6, No. 6 in G Minor was commissioned by the Handel & Haydn Society in 1991 and serves as a tribute to the ballerina Marie Salle.

The dancers include Patricia Beaman, Derek Clifford, Carlos Pittante, Keith Michael, Ms. Turocy and Ani Udovicki, and will be joined onstage by the Concert Royal Orchestra, performing on original instruments.

Baroque Favorites and Rarities is also being presented at Merkin Concert Hall in New York, where Concert Royal established its successful orchestra series in 1989.

Single tickets for Bach, Handel and the Dance are $22 and $16. For further information, call the Richardson box office at 258-5000.

Princeton Girlchoir Adds New Apprentice Choir

The Princeton Girlchoir has selected 54 girls as members for the 1994-95 season, and has established a new apprentice choir composed of an additional 13 girls. The selections were announced by choir director Janet A. Westrick at the conclusion of an auditions period that began in May.

"We are very excited about this expansion, and about starting an apprentice choir for the younger girls," says Mrs. Westrick. "Making our selections this year was more difficult than ever before. We auditioned more than 80 girls for only 55 openings, and there were so many wonderful voices. The apprentice choir provides vocal training and performance experience for fifth and sixth grade girls who auditioned well, but for whom there was no opening in the larger choir."

The Princeton Girlchoir includes girls from 11 communities in New Jersey. Five Princeton area residents have been named to its board of directors. They are Hollie Clay, Karen Cotton, Linda Mindlin, Sandy Sanders, and David J. Scholes.

Members of the executive committee for the 1994-95 season are Phoebe G. Williams, president; Hollie Clay, secretary; and A. (Rali) Ramalingam, treasurer. Other members of the board are Robert B. Berger, Yves Marcuard, Ann Michener, Janet Perkins, Rose Mary Schwarz, Marcianne Wavle, and Cheryl Whitney.

The Princeton Girlchoir is a nonprofit organization and welcomes corporate matching funds and individual and business support. For information, call Mrs. Westrick at 924-8017, or any board member.

'Opera in English' Topic Of Talk by Music Critic

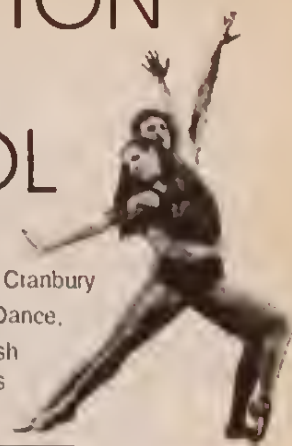

The Membership Committee of the Friends of Opera Festival of New Jersey announces its first event of the 1994-95 season. Michael Redmond, chief music critic of The Star-Ledger, will discuss "Opera in English" on Sunday, November 13, at a private home in Princeton.

A wine and cheese reception and a chance to mingle and voice opinions will follow the discussion. As part of the afternoon's program, which will run from 5 to 7, participants will learn about the Festival's future plans, upcoming Friends activities as well as opportunities to volunteer for New Jersey's leading regional opera company.

Centennial Concert For University Series

Princeton University Concerts will celebrate its 100th birthday with a Gala Centennial Concert on Thursday, November 3 at 8 at Richardson Auditorium. The evening will be a tribute to the founder of the series, Philena Fobes Fine, to the original Ladies' Musical Committee, and to the many individuals drawn from both town and gown who have guided the series during its century-long existence.

The program will begin with introductory remarks by Nathan A. Randall, University Concert Manager; John A. Ellis, chairman of the Princeton University Concerts Committee; and words of welcome from Harold T. Shapiro, president of Princeton University.

The Emerson String Quartet is the featured ensemble for the evening, with pianist Menahem Pressler assisting. The program will include the String Quartet in B Minor, Opus 33, No. 1, by Franz Joseph Haydn, the Quartet No. 2, Intimate Letters, of Leos Janacek, and the Piano Quintet in F Minor, Opus 34 of Johannes Brahms, with Mr. Pressler at the piano.

The centennial concert will be broadcast by WWFM, 89.1 FM, the Mercer County Community College public radio network. Although programs sponsored by Princeton University Concerts are heard CHOSEN FOR GALA CENTENNIAL CONCERT: The Emerson String Quartet will play works of Haydn, Janacek and Brahms at a concert Thursday, November 3, marking the 100th anniversary of Princeton University Concerts. Pianist Menahem Pressler will join the quartet in the Brahms work. The concert will be held in Richardson Auditorium.

regularly over WWFM, the centennial concert will be the first time a live broadcast has originated from the stage of Richardson Auditorium, and the first time WWFM has live-broadcast a local musical event.

The Emerson String Quartet took its name during the United States Bicentennial year from the American poet and philosopher Ralph Waldo Emerson. Violinists Eugene Drucker and Philip Setzer, who alternate in the first chair position, were founding members; violist Lawrence Dutton joined in 1977 and David Finckel became violoncellist in 1979.

During the current season, the Emerson will also appear with pianist Mr. Pressler at Carnegie Hall, and the Quartet will continue its sold-out series at the Smithsonian Institution and the Hartt School of Music, where it is Quartet-in-Residence.

Mr. Pressler began his professional career in the United States at age 17, when he won first prize in San Francisco's first International Debussy Competition. A founder of the Beaux Arts Trio, Mr. Pressler has toured worldwide with that ensemble for more than 30 years, and frequently appeared with the Trio for Princeton University Concerts. He holds the position of Distinguished Professor of Music on the piano faculty of the Indiana University School of Music.

First Concert at Inn

The present series known as Princeton University Concerts was founded in 1894, when the Kneisel Quartet of Boston gave the first concert at the Princeton Inn on October 28 under the auspices of The Ladies' Musical Committee, organized by Philena

Fobes Fine, wife of Henry Burchard Fine, professor of mathematics. Three other concerts appear to have been given during the remainder of the academic year.

Mrs. Fine "devoted her life in Princeton to bringing good music to the campus," said the headline of her obituary in the Princeton Herald for April 13, 1928. Born in Syracuse, N.Y., she was the daughter of Philander Fobes and Mary Gallagher Fobes. In 1888, she came to Princeton following her marriage to Dean Henry Burchard Fine in 1880, and presided at the Dean's House on the front campus during the decade between 1903 and 1912 when Professor Fine was Dean of the Faculty.

She was keenly interested in making the best music available to undergraduates, and organized a Committee on Music, which ever since has arranged for concerts and recitals, and is now known as the Princeton University Concerts Committee.

During the last years of her life, she had raised a sum of money amounting to $33,000 which she intended to insure the future of the concert series she had started. Shortly after her death on April 9, 1928, a memorial fund was announced by Jenny D. Hlibben, wife of the president of Princeton, and an additional $17,000 was raised to bring the total to $50,000. Known as The Philena Fobes Fine Endowment Fund, the sum was turned over to the Trustees of Princeton University and the present University Concerts Committee established.

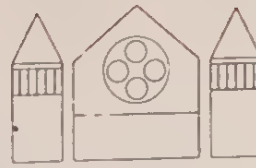

Tickets to the November 3 concert, priced at $27, $23, $19 (students, $2) are available at the Richardson Auditorium box office. Reservations may be made with Visa or MasterCard by calling 258-5000.

Friends of Opera Festival is a group of people who share a love of opera and participate in opera-related activities. The goals of the Friends are to promote interest in and support of Opera Festival through educational, social and fundraising activities; to function as an arts advocacy group; and to provide a rewarding experience for its volunteers.

All lovers of opera are welcome. Reservations are necessary. There will be a $5 admission charge at the door. For further information and reservations, call Vera Dowd, 936-1505.

Jazz Pianist Featured At Cafes in Princeton

Jazz pianist Karen Zumbrunn of Balcourt Drive will be featured with her jazz trio in two concerts in the upcoming weeks. The other members of the trio are Newt Stewart of Pennington on drums and Matt Kohut, former Princeton resident now living in Lambertville.

They will perform Wednesday, November 2, from 8:30 to 10:30 at Small World Coffee on Witherspoon Street, and on Tuesday, November 8, from 7:30 to 10 at Encore Books in the Princeton Shopping Center. The trio may also be heard every Thursday from 8 to 11 at Washington Crossing Inn, and every Saturday from 9 to midnight at Petrock's, Amwell Road at 206, Belle Mead.

National Medal of Arts Goes to Young Audiences

Young Audiences, the non-profit arts education organization, was awarded the National Medal of the Arts at a recent White House Ceremony. It was the only arts group to receive the honor this year.

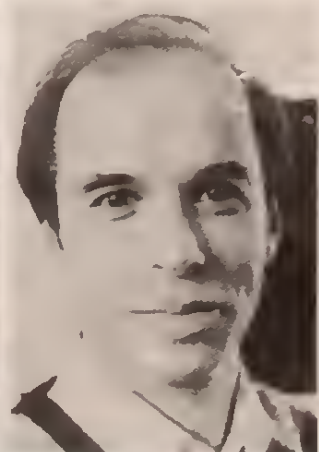

The National Medal of Arts is awarded to those who have offered inspiration to others through artistic achievement or through exceptional work on behalf of the arts. In presenting the medal to cellist Yo-Yo Ma, a board member, President Bill Clinton cited Young Audiences' work as an example of what can be accomplished when the educational system, the arts community and the public and private sectors work together towards a common goal.

Young Audiences of New Jersey, one of 32 chapters of the national organization, was founded in 1973 and maintains an office at 245 Nassau Street. It provides programs in schools and libraries throughout the state. On Tuesday and Thursday of this week two artists sponsored by Young Audiences of New Jersey are presenting a theatre sports program at the West Windsor-Plainsboro Upper Elementary School.

Violinist to Make Debut With the N.J. Symphony

The conductor Sergiu Comissiona and the Japanese-born violinist Tomohiro Okumura will make their debuts with the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra in upcoming concerts around the state. In this area, they will be heard Friday, November 4, at 8:30 at Crescent Temple in Trenton.

The program includes Verdi's Overture to I Vespri Siciliani, Paganini's Concerto No. 1 in D Major for Violin and Orchestra, and excerpts from Prokofiev's Romeo and Juliet. Mr. Comissiona, a native of Romania, has led more than 60 major orchestras in concerts in 25 countries, including the Boston Symphony, New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia Orchestra, Cleveland Orchestra, Berlin Radio Symphony and London Philharmonic, among others.

Tickets range in price from $42 to $12 and are available by calling the NJSO ticket office at 1-800-ALLEGRO or (201) 624-8203. Monday through Saturday from 11 to 5.

All-Beethoven Program By Chamber Symphony

The Princeton Chamber Symphony, under the direction of Mark Laycock, will present its first concert of the 1994-95 season on Sunday, November 6, at 3 in Richardson Auditorium on the Princeton University campus. Pianist Robert Taub will be the featured soloist, performing Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4.

Since his debut in 1981, Mr. Taub has performed throughout the United States, Europe, the Far East, and Latin America, and is the winner of some of the most coveted international prizes including the 1981 Peabody-Mason Award of Boston. He has recently been appointed artist-in-residence at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton — the first musician to be acknowledged in this way during the Institute's 60-year history.

The concert opens with Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4, composed at a time when he also wrote the Eroica Symphony, Appassionata Sonata, Rasumovsky String Quartets and Violin Concerto. The program will conclude with a performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 Eroica.

Tickets are available from the box office, 258-5000, and are priced at $22 and $19 for adults, $20 and $17 for seniors. There are a limited number of student tickets available at $5.

News of Clubs and Organizations

The Princeton University Ballroom dance club will hold its annual Fall Ball on Friday, November 4, from 8 to midnight in the Dillon Gymnasium on campus. A variety of ballroom and Latin music will be played. The cost is $10 per person and the event is open to the public. For reservations or more information call Geoff at 258-9159.

Encore Books & Music is joining with the Ivy League Chapter of the American Business Women's Association to co-host its first business card exchange at the store on Thursday, November 3, from 6 to 8:30.

The evening will include presentations by Phyllis Macklin, vice president Seagate Associates Inc., and Herb Spiegel, director of business and community relations at Mercer County Community College. Ms. Macklin will speak on "Networking Basics: Heard It Through the Grapevine," while Mr. Spiegel will discuss "How to Start and Operate a Business in the 1990s." Both speakers have extensive knowledge of networking organizations and business start-up resources in Mercer County.

The event will provide an opportunity to socialize and network for men and women who are interested in expanding their business connections. There is no charge and refreshments and door prizes are included.

The American Business Women's Association is one of the nation's largest business training associations for working women, having provided workplace skills and training for more than 525,000 women since its inception in 1949. Encore Books & Music is located in the Princeton Shopping Center on North Harrison Street.

The Women's Division of Princeton Area United Jewish Appeal/Federation will hold its Lion of Judah/Pomegranate Dinner on Thursday at 6 at Prospect House at Princeton University.

This kick-off event of the 1995 Princeton Area UJA/Federation Women's Division campaign is chaired by Jackie Meisel and Carol Atkin. Women's Division is headed by Carol Pollard, president, and Adele Agin, campaign chairwoman. The topic will be "The history and politics of Israel and the Arab States, as influenced by England and France."

Guest speaker will be Nan Greenblatt, who has served as director of UJA's Women's Division from 1978 to 1991, and as an assistant vice president of UJA from 1985-1991.

The campaign supports Jewish social service need around the world in Israel and locally. For further information or to make a reservation, contact Jeri Zimmerman, Executive Director at 243-9440.

Princeton Business and Professional Women, Inc. (PBPW) will hold an induction and orientation meeting for new members on Tuesday, November 8, at 5:30 p.m. at the Princeton Corporate Center, Dean Witter Conference Room, Building 4, second floor, East Wing, 1009 Lenox Drive, Lawrenceville.

This special outreach and networking meeting will welcome new members and introduce the goals, values, and opportunities of PBPW to women in the area.

"This membership orientation comes on the heels of our October net-working event, and should bring lots of different people together," said PBPW president Lindsay Forness. "We'll be looking for new members from all facets of professional life, whether they work for a corporation, own their business, or are looking for a career change."

PBPW, Inc. has offered support and networking opportunities for women in Princeton and the surrounding area for 72 years.

The meeting is free of charge and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

For further information, call Virginia Dicuircio, 844-7972.

On Wednesday, November 2 at 8 p.m., the Princeton PC Users group Word-Perfect Special Interest Group will meet in the basement Computer Education Room at the Medical Center of Princeton, 281 Witherspoon Street. The evening's focus will be on "Favorite Tips & Tricks for WP Navigation."

All WP users are welcome to attend.

The Princeton PC Users Group's regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, November 9, will feature a repeat visit by Steve McClatchy of Broderbund Software, Inc., the company that developed "Print Shop," "Where in the World Is Carmen Sandiego?" and other educational programs.

The group meets at 7 p.m. in the Main Building of the Educational Testing Service campus at the corner of Rosedale and Carter roads. Parking and entrance are at the rear of the building.

PC users at all proficiency levels are invited. Club membership is not required. For more information call Chris Bannister, 466-1530.

The Newcomers Grad Group of Princeton will meet on Friday at noon at the YWCA. A light lunch will be served at a cost of $4 per person.

Tom Gromley, of Barnegat Bay Decoy Museum and Vaymans Museum, will give a slide presentation on the history of the Jersey shore. Former Newcomers are welcome.

For more information, call Denise Pooladdej at 275-1285.

May We Suggest?...

Before you turn up the heat, your wood furniture may need some attention.

The evenings are growing cooler and soon we will be enjoying crackling fires in the warmth of our homes. But after our hot and humid summer, if we blast out the hot, dry furnace air, panels can shrink, veneers pop, and joints open as wood and glues respond to the drastic environmental change.

We suggest gradually increasing your house temperature over two to four weeks to an optimal 70 degrees with a relative humidity between 40 to 60%.

Fall waxing and maintenance of furniture and wooden interiors, also helps wood adjust to seasonal changes. We can come to your home and help with waxing, repairs or any of your furniture restoration needs. Call us for an appointment today — before you turn up the heat!

November Gallery Talks At Princeton Art Museum

Gallery talks in November at the Princeton University Art Museum will begin with a program on the early drawings of Arshile Gorky, on view in "Arshile Gorky and the Genesis of Abstraction: Drawings from the Early 1930s," an exhibition that will open October 29 and continue through December 31.

Other programs in November include an examination of the social and political climate surrounding 19th-century European art and talks by two classical scholars on Greek sculpture in the museum's permanent collection.

Gallery talks are given on Fridays at 12:30 p.m. and repeated on Sundays at 3 p.m. from October through early May. All programs are free and open to the public.

In the opening program, "The Drawings of Arshile Gorky" on November 4, Charles Steiner, associate director of the museum, will discuss Gorky's importance to the history of art and examine works in the current exhibition. Mr. Steiner describes the drawings as "especially important in understanding the genesis of modern art."

On November 11, docent Marianne Grey will place art of the 19th century within a political and social context in "Pathways through Nineteenth-Century Art." The program will include an examination of various French, British, Spanish, Swiss, and Russian historical events, political ideas, and literary themes as they influenced the art of the period.

On November 18, Michael Padgett, associate curator of

"WILLEM DE KOONING," 1975, a black and white photograph by Nancy Crampton will be included in an exhibit of her work, "Photographs of Artists and Writers 1972-1994," at the Anne Reid Art Gallery, Princeton Day School, from November 5 through December 16.

Ancient art, will talk about "Greek Sculpture in the Princeton University Art Museum." Dr. Padgett describes Princeton's collection of Greek stone sculpture as one of the finest of any American college or university.

The museum's collection of Greek sculpture will also be the subject of a gallery talk on November 20 by Brunilde S. Ridgway, Rhys Carpenter professor of Classical and Near Eastern Archaeology emeritus at Bryn Mawr College. Prof. Ridgway is the author of Greek Sculpture in The Art Museum, Princeton University, a fully illustrated, 144-page catalogue, published earlier this year by the museum.

The next program will be on December 2, when museum conservator Norman Muller talks about "Images, Objects, and Techniques in Early Italian Panel Painting."

Artworks Benefit Sale To Be Held November 5

Artworks, the Visual Arts School of Princeton and Trenton, will celebrate its 30th anniversary on November 5 with a benefit gala, "Paint the Towns," an auction of works by local artists.

Artworks was founded as the Princeton Art Association, and after locations on Nassau Street, Spring Street, and the Ettl Farm, it has moved to its current studios in the former Miss Fine's School, behind Borough Hall. The Trenton facility was added in 1986.

The gala's patrons and sponsors will start off the evening with cocktails and dinner with food catered by Something Special and music provided by strolling musicians. Other ticket holders will then join in for a dessert buffet and the raffle drawing. First prize is two round-trip tickets anywhere in the United States. The evening will conclude with the art auction. The event will take Artworks, a group in Ardmore, Pa., in conjunction with Triangle Art & Repro, is offering free art classes in four Lawrenceville locations. They are, the Triangle store on the Brunswick Pike; Lawrence Library, Route 1 and Darrah Lane; Lawrence Senior Center, Darrah Lane; and Quaker Bridge Mall.

A total of 25 lessons will be given, beginning this week and continuing through November 19.

Included are classes in mat cutting, watercolor, drawing, airbrushing, pastels, clay, oils, wood burning, and rubber stamping.

For more information, call Triangle Art & Repro at 883-3600.

Exhibits

Paul Muldoon will read from his new book of poems, The Annals of Chile at an exhibition of his potato-printed glyphs on Saturday, November 5, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Art's Garage, 49 East Broad Street, Hopewell.

A photography exhibition, "Generation to Generation," will be on view in the main lobby of the Jewish Center of Princeton, Nassau Street, through December 11.

The exhibit traces the history of 14 area families, all members of The Jewish Center, in photographs from the 1800s through the present time.

Photographs include Mel Schulman's great-grandfather in Moldetzna, Russia, in about 1890; and Ruth Feldstein's great-great-grandfather, Rabbi Herzl Perdoniker, with his family in a photo taken in Byelorussia in the early 1800's.

An array of storefront businesses are represented, including Rob Goldston's great-grandfather's store in Stockton on Tees, England, in 1901. Its awning states, "Picture Frames, Wallpaper."

Also shown is a wedding picture of the parents of Jewish Center Rabbi Dov Peretz Elkins.

Co-curators of the exhibit are Gilda Aronovic and Maxine Gurk. Hours at 9 to 5 Monday through Thursday and 9 to 3 Friday.

A Philadelphia-born photographer will exhibit in "Nancy Crampton: Artists and Writers 1972-1994," at the Anne Reid Gallery, Princeton Day School, from November 5 to December 16. An opening reception will take place Saturday, November 5 from 5 to 8 p.m.

Ms. Crampton will show 50 black and white photographs taken with a Leica. Her subjects include Charles Adams, 1973, at his pied-a-terre in New York City wearing a helmet from his collection of medieval artifacts; James Baldwin, 1986, in a white jellaba, hands clasped, leaning against the wall of his home in Saint-Paul-de-Vence; Willem de Kooning, 1975, at his studio in East Hampton; and Frank Stella, 1974, in his loft in Manhattan.

John Cage, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Susan Sontag, Anne Sexton, Louise Nevelson, W.H. Auden, John Cheever, Truman Capote, John McPhee, George Segal, and many others are among Ms. Crampton's subjects.

The Anne Reid Gallery at Princeton Day School, The Great Road, is open weekdays 8 to 4 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 4, or by appointment, 924-6700 or 921-2437.

The Princeton Enamel Guild will hold an exhibit at the Present Day Club, 72 Stockton Street, during November and December.

Enameling is an ancient art used by the Greeks as early as the 5th century B.C. Vitreous enamel is essentially glass fused to metal at very high temperatures. Through multiple firings (each with a new application of enamel), a very rich color is acquired.

Although enameling can be applied to jewelry, bowls and sculpture, the work in this exhibit will consist of wall-pieces. A variety of techniques will be displayed in both abstract and realistic styles.

"Holiday Mandala Surprise," a solo exhibition of color photocopies by Deborah Pohl, will be on display at the South Brunswick Public Library at Kingston Lane, Monmouth Junction, during November.

Mandala is defined by American Heritage Dictionary as "any of various ritualistic geometric designs symbolic of the universe, used in Hinduism and Buddhism as an aid to meditation."

Deborah Pohl's idiosyncratic designs are a loose interpretation of the mandala motif. Using holiday decorations and visual imagery derived from the everyday environment, she creates highly structured compositions.

Ms. Pohl received a 1990/91 fellowship for painting from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and is an alumna of Mason Gross School of the Arts, Rutgers University.

The Gallery of the Kirby Arts Center of The Lawrenceville School will feature the paintings of Bill Scott from November 1 through December 2. An opening reception with the artist will be held on Thursday, November 3, from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

PHS Peer Group Program Offers Mentoring & Leadership

"Years ago, when did a senior girl ever bother to speak to a freshman boy, except maybe to say 'Get out of my way!' Of course, the senior boys checked out the freshmen girls, but that was different."

As Princeton High School social studies supervisor and former Peer Leadership coordinator Ralph Heyman points out, there was not a lot of mixing between upper and lower high school classes in years past. If anything, class separation and class status were accentuated. Many of us can remember the days of "lofty seniors" and "lowly freshmen."

Times have changed, and so have attitudes. At Princeton High, mixing and mingling among classes is normal now, and much of the change is due to the 15-year-old Peer Group program, which promotes contact between freshmen and seniors.

"Because of this program," says Mr. Heyman, "there is now caring and concern. Freshmen think that 'this person — this senior — actually cares about me', and this caring and concern can break down barriers."

Current Peer Group coordinator and student assistance counselor, Gwen Kimsal comments on the value to everyone in the program, freshmen and seniors alike. "The freshmen benefit from the experience of the seniors, and it is rewarding to watch the seniors develop and become more competent; to see at the end of the year how much they have learned about life and people. It's a continuing process."

Adds co-coordinator and physical education teacher Joyce Jones: "I like to see the development of seniors with freshmen who are difficult to handle, and to find at the end of the semester, they were able to turn those freshman around. There are many cultural and ethnic backgrounds and home environments today. Everyone in the group is not the same."

A Light Went On

The Peer Group program, which is now widespread in high schools and colleges across the U.S., as well as abroad, began at Princeton High in 1979 under the leadership of Sharon Powell, President and founder of the Princeton Center for Leadership Training.

"Princeton High School was really one of the first comprehensive models for peer leadership in the country," says Dr. Powell, a former middle school teacher, who received an Ed.D. in counseling psychology.

"I had taken a course on the social and emotional maladjustment of children," she recalls, "and this pointed out that it was our responsibility as educators to develop skills to cope with problems and to create a support system to prevent problems from escalating."

"A light went on in my head, and I thought this is what I want to be doing — to help schools and communities prevent problems. Also, it had always made sense to me that peers had the most influence on peers."

She was especially concerned with the transition from middle school to high school. After investigating many programs around the country, Dr. Powell wrote a proposal, and received a $5,000 grant from the State of New Jersey to set up a peer leadership program.

HELPING OUT: "It's an experience we don't want to miss." Princeton High School seniors and Peer leaders, (left to right), Jan Eggert, Rachael Stentz, and Jesse Antin are very enthusiastic about the school's Peer Group program in which seniors mentor freshmen. "These are some of the first chances a student might get to exercise leadership and develop the maturity to do it well. We learn how to communicate and how to listen, and you learn a lot about how to handle people in different situations."

She hoped to start the program at PHIS, and after receiving a go ahead from superintendent Paul Houston and principal John Sakala, she addressed the student council. "50 students immediately signed up for the 10 leader spots," remembers Dr. Powell.

Drugs and alcohol were important issues, she notes, but "just as crucial was kids learning to get along with kids different from themselves. Kids can be very isolated from each other in high school — by race, neighborhoods, interests, etc. One of the most important things is to get them to be understanding of cultural diversity."

A Cross-section

"The groups were a cross-section," she adds. "We mixed them up. They weren't with their close friends. Also, the peer leaders are very diverse. For example, you don't always want the kid who teachers say is the perfect role model."

At first, the program was optional for freshmen, but in time, it became mandatory. The peer leadership training class for seniors became a course for credit. It is now divided into two classes of 14 students, meeting five days a week. At the beginning of the fall term, parents of freshmen receive a letter describing the program.

Instilling tolerance and respect for others and for their views which may be different from one's own is no easy task, especially in times of increasing ethnic and cultural diversity and tensions, but the Peer Group has made an impact.

"It has affected the climate of the school very positively," says Mr. Heyman, who was involved in the program for 10 years. "Studies have shown that it improves school behavior, attendance, academic performance, and self esteem. Students are we go through the specifics of the meeting. We'll have run-through exercises; what they are asking the freshmen to do, we do in class. This validates for them what is worthwhile — they can see whether the questions work or not, and it gives them an understanding of the group process."

"Also," she continues, "Joyce and I will sit in on a group for 10 or 15 minutes, and then we'll give feedback later in class. We also introduce leadership topics during the week."

Revealing Insights

In a recent class with Ms. Jones, the leaders prepared for the boy/girl relationships meeting. They threw themselves wholeheartedly into role-playing exercises in which the girls presented their view of a typical boys' locker room session. The boys gave their version of a girls' dance recital.

Not only was it funny and relaxed, it offered revealing insights in how the boys and girls perceived each other as a group.

"One of the keys to social maturity is to go from a very egocentric point of view to being able to see things from another's point of view," explains Mr. Heyman. "I don't think there is any other course that teaches the development of social maturity."

"Also, through the program, the leaders can see that they have created something very special, and they often go into fields where they can help people, and make a difference."

Leader Jan Eggert remembers how helpful the peer group was when he was a freshman, and now he enjoys giving back. "I wasn't from here, and the peer group was a chance for me to meet new people, including upper classmen. There are also interesting experiences in the meetings that relate to things that happen in life."

Creating an atmosphere in which participants are comfortable with honest exchanges and disagreements can be helpful in dealing with issues such as drugs and alcohol. "Drugs and alcohol are addressed indirectly," explains Rachael Stentz. "There could be a meeting on peer pressure, for example, and we try to get across that each person's opinion is valuable. We help them find their own answers."

"We don't preach," adds leader Jesse Antin.

"The leaders try to validate that you can be an individual," explains Ms. Kimsal. "You'll find out in the group that not everyone is doing something (drugs, alcohol, etc.). You may think everyone is, but they're not."

contradicts them. We are concerned with others and with helping them and each other."

Joyce Jones agrees. Strong friendships are formed in the groups among the freshmen, who often remain close for their high school career, and also between seniors and freshmen. As Jesse Antin says, "What I'm most anxious to see is what I'll miss: what's going to happen to my freshmen, to see them grow. But I won't be here."

"I have the opportunity to see what Jesse's talking about," says Ms. Kimsal. "I get to see the freshmen eventually become senior leaders."

Ralph Heyman points out that "Sometimes the leaders also come back three years later when the freshmen are seniors, and they sit in and take part in the classes. There is real continuity, and it's a legacy they want to preserve. They have a tremendous commitment to this."

Jesse Antin notes that the dedication of these seniors to the peer group may surprise some adults. "There are some perceptions, among adults, of teenagers in general, and I think this program 'Sometimes, conversations among adults about teens often include, 'teens are selfish, know-it-alls', etc. Out of this program, I have seen these conversations change. These kids care about others, they want to make a difference in the school. This is very positive, and it's very rewarding for me to be a part of it."

The Peer Group format changes during the second semester. It is optional, and is no longer exclusively for freshmen and seniors. It is open to all classes, which creates even more diversity and interaction.

"We continue to supervise, and we still have classes, but the students plan the meetings," says Ms. Kimsal. "I know I've done my job when they don't need me."

The leader selection is crucial to the program, and the cross section of students has been very successful. Many more applications are received than can be accepted, and as Rachael Stentz says, "It's an honor to be a leader."

"We look for natural leadership skills, including communications and listening skills," says Ms. Kimsal. "We especially want to see that they are interested in the good of the group. This is very important. They also have to be able to take the initiative, and we are also looking for sensitivity."

The commitment and skills of leaders and coordinators and the format of the program itself — its focus on reality — account for this 15-year success story. As Sharon Powell points out, "You can't help students to be more respectful of differences and learn how to get along in the abstract. You actually have to be in the situation. If we can create opportunities in a very real way for kids to work together as a team, this is a big step."

Joyce Jones adds that "With traditional learning,

Defense Rebounds to Hold Off Harvard Until Offense Gets Rolling to Give Tiger Football 5th Win in a Row

Tom Ludwig caught three passes Saturday, which would have qualified as a below-average game for the Fort Wayne, Ind., native a year ago. Of course, then he was a first-team All-State wide receiver for his high school team — but Saturday, he was a freshman free safety making his first career start at Princeton.

Ludwig's three interceptions, highlighted by a third-quarter pick-off in the Princeton end zone, provided the defensive strength in the Tigers' 18-7 win over visiting Harvard (3-3 overall; 1-2 Ivy League), a victory which keeps Princeton (5-1; 2-1) in the thick of the Ivy League title race.

The Tigers reverted to Archie and junior Hans Schroeder have all suffered injuries. He started his Princeton career at wide receiver, but was switched after his first day of practice.

"We really fought over that one because believe me, he's equally talented as a receiver," head coach Steve Tosches said. "We just thought we needed a little more depth and we needed more help in the secondary, so we thought we'd make him a free and kind of work with him."

Ludwig, who only played one year of defense in high school, wasn't thrilled by the change at first, but his feelings may have altered.

"All summer I was working towards being a wide receiver, because that was what my love was," he admitted. "After the first day of testing they said, 'You know, Tom, we kind of want to put you at defense,' and I was just a freshman so I said, 'O.K., I'll go along with that.'"

Defenses Dominate

"Before today, I liked offense a lot more," he added. "I'm reconsidering that now." Both defenses dominated the first half, as neither team could hold onto the ball for as many as three minutes in the first quarter. Princeton never crossed the 50-yard line in the first quarter, a favor that would be returned, however, when Harvard was held in its own territory for the entire fourth period.

The Princeton defense was bolstered, as always, by the play of junior linebacker Dave Patterson. This week Patterson, who sprained his knee last week, wasn't sure he would play until right up to game time. Despite not playing on passing downs, Patterson led the Tigers in tackles.

Both teams worked to establish the running game, with Harvard relying on tailback Eion Hu and Princeton using its two-tailback rotation of senior Bill Jordan and sophomore Marc Washington. The strategy wouldn't change all day, as Hu (126 yards) and Jordan (120) both topped 100 yards. For Jordan, it was his second consecutive 100-yard game. Most of those yards came in the second half, however, as the two teams punted back and forth in the first quarter, interrupted only by a Harvard fumble.

Harvard ended the defensive domination on its first drive of the second quarter, thanks largely to a trick play. One play after a long completion to Mike Halligan, Halligan took a reverse and looked downfield. He threw to receiver Colby Skelton, who was behind the Princeton secondary. He made the catch but fell on the Princeton three-yard line. Hu took an option pitch from quarterback Vin Ferrara on first-and-goal for the touchdown, giving Harvard a 7-0 edge.

Princeton moved the ball 28 yards on its next drive behind Washington's running but stalled on the Harvard 38-yard line. That drive, combined with a weak 15-yard Harvard punt, gave Princeton great field position on its next drive.

Tigers Respond

The Tigers took advantage of the short field, starting again on the Crimson 38. Nakielny began by gaining 10 yards on a bootleg, with a five-yard face-mask penalty added on. From there the Tigers let Jordan (15 yards) and senior fullback Darron Webb (eight) carry them into the end zone.

The scoring run itself came from Jordan, the first of two on the day for the senior. After two first-and-goal runs up the middle went nowhere, Tosches turned to the option. Nakielny was buried but slipped it out to Jordan. With Harvard stacking the middle, he had a clear lane to the end zone, tying the score at seven.

A sack by sophomore defensive end Dale Bartley ended Harvard's last drive of the half and gave Princeton its first real opportunity of the season to test its two-minute offense. It looked sharp, with Nakielny completing four-of-six passes to set up a first-and-goal from the eight.

With first-and-goal on the Harvard eight, the offense died, what is becoming a disturbing pattern for Nakielny and his teammates.

"We have got to get the ball in the end zone when we're down close to the goal line," Nakielny said. "When you're in that close you've got to get a touchdown."

Princeton's field goal attempt was blocked and the Tigers went to the locker room tied.

their home-field form, which through the first four games at Palmer Stadium has constituted a devastating defense followed by an offense which eventually produces points. Sophomore quarterback Harry Nakielny made his second career start for Princeton and played admirably, completing 15-of-27 passes for 188 yards and no interceptions.

Ludwig's three interceptions in one game tied a Princeton record, the 11th time it has happened and the first time since 1988 when Frank Leal turned the trick against Yale. He also had one interception last week at Fordham, giving him four for the year and the team lead.

5-1 Tigers Don't Have to Worry About Looking Past Columbia

A most interesting season continues to gain momentum for the 5-1 Princeton football team, now faced with meeting an old nemesis on its own turf.

It's Columbia, and yes, the Lions will be a problem for the Tigers in Lawrence A. Wien Stadium this Saturday, but no longer the kind of problem of prior years. In seasons past, Old Nassau had to work to get itself aroused for this contest with an often winless, perpetually weak opponent. More times than coach Steve Tosches and his predecessors would like to remember the mental preparation was lacking, and an ugly upset would ensue. The year 1988 particularly comes to mind, when the Light Blue ended its 44-game losing streak at Princeton's expense. Tosches' troops suffered another loss there to a winless Columbia team in 1990, before winning the last three, including a 34-7 defeat of the Lions in 1992.

These days, however, Lions' fans are talking victories not defeats. And they are still talking about last weekend's romp over Yale in the Bowl. The 30-9 triumph, the most lopsided win by the Lions since a 35-14 triumph over (you guessed it) Princeton in 1982, put Columbia at 3-2-1, its best start since 1978. The triumph was the first over Yale in 11 years.

The Light Blue offense is getting the job done with two quarterbacks. Mike Cavanaugh runs the ground attack from a wishbone formation. When it's time to pass, enter Jamie Schwalde, who got his first varsity start against Princeton a year ago in Palmer Stadium, and is currently the top-rated passer in the league. He blew Yale away with a 20-28, 265-yard performance.

Surprisingly, the defense, traditionally one of the most porous in the league, is contributing as well. It gave up 39 points to Harvard in the opener, but has gotten better every week. Penn could manage just four field goals against the Lions in Franklin Field two weeks ago. The Elis came up with only nine.

While Princeton has always had to work to get up for a contest with Columbia, the Lions have never had the reverse problem. With the solid performance against Penn, and the rout of Yale pushing its confidence level to a new high, the Light Blue will be primed to take on the Orange and Black this Saturday. And victory on its part should not be called an upset.

To prevent this, the Tigers will have to take their performance up another notch. It's fine to keep boasting about second half and particularly fourth quarter heroics, but one Saturday, you may be too far behind to catch up. Sophomore Harry Nakielny showed definite improvement from his first start to his second. He is not quite the runner Brock Harvey was, but certainly a better passer. That will help the offense.

The defense looked vulnerable to runs up the middle by Harvard's Eion Hu, but made the big plays when the time came. The defensive unit was buoyed by another fresh face, freshman defensive back Tom Ludwig, who came up with three interceptions. Each week someone new steps up to lead the unit, and that keeps things fresh.

Last year's team could have used some fresh faces as the season progressed. Looking back, one wonders whether the Tigers had already played their best football before they began the stretch run. Entering last year's game with Columbia at 6-0, the Orange and Black struggled to a 14-3 win in a sloppily played game against a poor Lion squad, that included five fumbles (mainly on the snap from center) and almost 100 yards in penalties. Joel Foote completed just six of 16 passes.

Every Tiger fan remembers what happened the next week in Franklin Field against Penn. The performance was the low point of the season. Things improved the following week with a 28-7 triumph over Yale. But the Elis, who won just three times all season, weren't put away until the fourth quarter. The season's finale against Dartmouth (a 28-22 loss) started well, but ended in disaster when Princeton ran out of gas both offensively and defensively.

If this Princeton team can avoid that trap, it may have a much more satisfying four games. However, looking at this week, even another step forward may not be enough. The heart says somehow the Tigers can win this one, the head says Columbia just will have too much going for it this Saturday, and will come away with a 24-21 triumph.

Around the league, last weekend's contests have dropped more contenders from the Ivy race. Harvard has been eliminated with its second loss, followed by Dartmouth and Yale. The Elis, plagued by injuries again, have lost three straight, and figure to be no more than cannon fodder for undefeated Penn this weekend. The Big Green almost pulled off a major upset in Ithaca, but gave up the winning touchdown in the final minute. Its new quarterback Jerry Singleton completed 24 of 30 passes for 259 yards.

Cornell somehow continues undefeated, mainly on the strength of strong running from Chad Leavitt and a stingy defense. Brown, which was manhandled by Penn, 24-0, doesn't figure to be the one to halt the Big Red's winning streak this Saturday in Ithaca. So we've got Penn and Cornell on top, both with 3-0 league marks, followed by Princeton, now the only team with a legitimate shot of catching them.

It is a decided long-shot that the Tigers will be able to do it, but the good news is, no one expected they would still even be in position to try this late in the season.

the Crimson to the three, where Ferrara went to the air. He looked in the back of the end zone but didn't see Ludwig, who slipped underneath and intercepted the pass that would have given Harvard a 14-7 edge.

The Turning Point

"I thought the turning point today was when they had first-and-goal on the three and [Ludwig] had his first interception," Tosches said. "That gave us new life."

The offense generated a long drive at the end of the third quarter, highlighted by Jordan runs of 12 and 11 yards and three completions by Nakielny. It once again stalled inside the Harvard 10, but freshman kicker Brian Buckman hit a 21-yard field goal to give the Tigers a 10-7 lead.

Princeton looked ready to add to the lead on its next drive, which followed Ludwig's second interception, but a fumble on the Harvard 10 turned the ball back over to the Crimson.

Princeton's next possession may have been its most efficient of the year. It started with an 11-yard run by Jordan, followed by a 12-yard strike from Nakielny to Scoggin. Senior fullback C.J. Brucato gained 12 yards on the next play and, two plays later, Nakielny hit Scoggin again.

Two plays after that, Jordan took a handoff over the right side, broke through the line and cut back left for a 17-yard touchdown. A botched extra-point attempt, which Buckman thought was a fake, resulted in a two-point conversion for the Tigers and a 18-7 lead.

drive," Jordan said later. "That was a great drive, and now we're going to build on it, and piece together series of drives like that."

Ludwig sealed the win with his final interception, and any of the 15,143 at Palmer Stadium could tell you that it was not just the offense that had come of age in this game. You have to include a freshman wide receiver-turned-free safety from Fort Wayne, Ind., on that list.

A PAIR OF PLAYMAKERS: Two of the big play men for PHS in their 26-0 trouncing of McCorristin last Saturday were No. 13 Jason Carter, and Justin Henderson (lead blocker). Carter ran for 117 yards and one touchdown on the day. Henderson started the ball rolling for PHS, returning a punt 53 yards for a TD in the game's opening minutes.

Princeton Spikes Mikes; 26-0 Game Is Punchless

It is an old truism in sports, that the level of a team's play is tied to the quality of their competition. A team can play up to the competition, and a team can play down to the competition. On Saturday, PHS played down to McCorristin.

Of course, you can only go so low. McCorristin has such a poor squad this year that even a flat, uninspired band of Little Tigers was able to crush the Iron Mikes 26-0.

"I don't think our kids were really into the game," said PHS coach Keith Wadsworth. "We didn't have a good week in practice, we didn't stay focused."

The poor week of practice may have been the cause or the result of the unexplained benching of many starters through the first quarter of play. Wadsworth declined to comment on the apparent disciplinary measure.

The team's attitude was palpably poor in the first half. Several players had to be kept from arguing with the officials, and sluggishness seemed the order of the day.

Even in the second half, after Wadsworth delivered what he referred to as an "attitude adjustment" in the locker room, penalties were rife. The Little Tigers were flagged for more than 115 yards in the game.

This is not to say that there were no bright spots. Justin Henderson, one of the team captains, wasted no time at all in getting the momentum of the game in Princeton's favor.

Forced to punt on their first possession, the Mikes booted the ball across the 50 to Henderson. The senior defensive back burned 53 yards up the right sideline, making it into the end zone virtually untouched, to give PHS an early 6-0 lead.

McCorristin could do nothing to respond in the first quarter, and when the rest of the PHS starting team checked in in the second quarter, the game was over.

Kenny Graziano was next in line for a big play. The junior fullback, not normally known for blinding speed, took a page from the Brandon McEwen playbook.

With McEwen on the sideline nursing a sore back, no one expected to see many big sweeping runs along the sideline, but that's exactly what Graziano provided.

He broke through a tackler on the right side and took the ball 63 yards for the score. Two members of the misplaced McCorristin secondary nearly caught up to him inside the five, but he pushed through to the end zone.

Quarterback Arthur Gross flicked a short pass over the middle to tight end Kirk Weber for the two-point conversion.

In the second half, defensive back Foreal Wooten stepped up to the big play counter and claimed his share. On one of the few series where McCorristin crossed the 50-yard line, they tried to send a split end on an out pattern to the left sideline. Mistake.

The pass was soft, and Wooten and everyone else on the sideline saw it coming. Wooten also saw the big patch of unoccupied green space between him and the other end of the field, which must have been sorely tempting.

He leapt in front of the receiver, snatched the ball away, and ran 65 trouble-free yards for the third PHS TD of the afternoon.

Wooten would go on to grab another interception in the fourth quarter, which gave PHS the ball at the 2:05 mark, effectively ending the game.

The final touchdown of the afternoon belonged to Jason Carter. Standing in for the injured McEwen, the junior running back took the ball at scrimmage and sped 65 yards down the left side of the field with 8:20 remaining, to finish the Mikes off.

Two Weeks 'Til WW-P

The bad news is that coach Wadsworth had good reason not to be happy with his squad's performance on Saturday. The good news is that he and the rest of the coaching staff have a bye week ahead of them, giving them extra time to prepare for a November 5 showdown with West Windsor-Plainsboro.

They'll also have time to heal. Coming away from a 35-0 beating by South Hunterdon, the Little Tigers were a battered team in more ways than one. "We had a lot of injuries this week," reported Wadsworth. "We were practicing with only 22 or 25 guys."

Wadsworth knows what his team needs to work on to prepare. "Offensively, I'm not happy at all. The line isn't holding their blocks. We should be a lot further along than we are right now."

Defensively, he says he is tired of seeing other teams roll up the yardage on off-tackle plays.

With regard to his team's upcoming game with WW-P, the CVC's only unbeaten team, Wadsworth is guardedly optimistic. In his mind, the responsibility seems to devolve as much upon the coaches as the players.

"We're going to drill them, we're going to work them, and as coaches we're going to work hard these next two weeks. I think we'll be ready for them."

Streaking Little Tigers Just Keep on Winning

Typically, the climb from mediocrity to excellence is much like the hike up a mountain: long and slow, interrupted by switchbacks, traverses, and long, breathless rests.

There are other options though. The adventurous can strike a path straight up the side, hoping that their luck and endurance will hold out long enough to get them to the top.

That seems to be the path the Little Tiger boys' soccer team has chosen for their ascent through the Valley Division soccer ranks. In the space of two weeks, PHS has won six straight games, moving from a middle-of-the-road 5-5, to an impressive 11-5.

With two games remaining (the most important of which, against Hopewell, was played on Tuesday afternoon) the Little Tigers have an outside chance at a tie for the Valley Division crown. Their hopes are, admittedly, slim; but two weeks ago, they had none at all.

Against a hopeless McCorristin team last Friday, PHS cruised to a 6-0 victory, their third shutout in four games.

Six players scored goals for the Little Tigers: Reuben Cordoba, Neil Kobland, Sergio Santizo, Carlos Figueroa, Rich Osmer, and newcomer Angel Arias.

In goal, Craig Schroeder made three saves.

The supposedly hapless Irish of Notre Dame gave the Little Tigers a scare on Wednesday, but fell 2-1 on a last minute goal by Figueroa. Osmer put PHS on the board with a first-half goal, assisted by Figueroa. The Irish managed one in the first as well, and the two teams went to halftime locked at 1-1.

Neither team seemed able to score in the second half, and the Irish were licking their chops, hoping to improve on their 1-10-1 record.

With 14 seconds remaining, though, Ben Solomon hit Figueroa with a cross, and INTENSITY: Robin Ackerman, of PDS stares down Princeton High's Kaiya Ermolaev during a free hit last Friday afternoon. The two cross-town rivals ended the contest in a 1-1 tie.

the team's leading scorer netted his tenth of the season to give the Little Tigers the victory.

The Little Tigers finish up their regular season schedule this week with an away match against Hamilton on Thursday afternoon. State Tournament play is scheduled to begin next week.

PHS Stomps McCorristin As Gilbert Scores Two

The Little Tigers battered the hapless Mikes of McCorristin on Friday, crushing their 1-16 hosts 6-1.

PHS took a 2-0 lead in the first half of play, and then exploded in the next half for four more goals. McCorristin could only sneak one ball past PHS goalie Anna Kupin, who had six saves.

Cathy Gilbert scored two for the Little Tigers. Single goals were added by Stephanie Rigolot, Leigh Coppel, Becca Parks, and Suzannah Stout.

PHS fell 3-1 to the formidable Irish of Notre Dame last week, who lead the race for the Valley Division title with an 11-1-2 record.

All of the scoring happened in the first half of play, with Courtney Nolan supplying the sole PHS goal on an assist by Rigolot.

In the goal, Kupin and Maury Argento combined for 20 saves, making 11 and 9, respectively.

PHS played Hopewell on Tuesday, and will face Hamilton at home on Thursday.

PHS Tennis Now 13-5, Adding Two More Wins

The PHS tennis team avenged an early-season loss in grand style last week, beating Notre Dame 4¹/₂-1¹/₂, with the second singles contest suspended because of rain.

Laura Woo and Keiko Okuda won first and third singles, respectively, in straight sets. Doana Cekan was rained out in her second singles contest, settling for a tie.

In doubles, the teams of Jen Cook and Tressa Chung, and Kara Porwancher and Jessica Forrest both won in straight sets.

Against Peddie on Monday, the Little Tigers registered their 13th win of the season, 4-1. Woo, Cekan, and Okuda all won their singles matches.

Cook and Chung were topped at first doubles 6-3, 6-7 (5-7), 6-2. Moe Kyin stepped in for Forrest at second doubles, and she and Porwancher cruised to a 6-2, 6-4 win.

The Little Tigers played Hopewell on Tuesday, too late for this issue. On Friday, they will host Hamilton.

PHS Improves to 4-10-1 In Tough Hockey Week

PHS held a powerful Hopewell Valley squad to a single goal on Tuesday, but couldn't score one themselves, as the Bulldogs took a 1-0 victory.

Jessica Parks made 10 saves on the day for the Little Tigers.

A Sherri Durkee goal, two minutes into overtime, pushed the Little Tigers past Steinert. Two Saturdays previously, a 2-0 victory over the Spartans had given PHS a spot in the semi-finals of the Mercer County Tournament. The win was Princeton's fourth of the year, improving their record to 4-10-1.

In a battle of local rivals, the Little Tigers held Princeton Day School to a tie. Amanda Willard netted the sole PHS goal with 4:30 remaining in the first half.

In goal, Parks made eight saves, and Meg Maher stepped in to make three.

The Little Tigers played Hamilton on Tuesday, too late for this issue. On tap for the PHS squad this week, is a Thursday afternoon away meeting with South I:underdon, and a second Hamilton match, on Monday.

Tiger Soccer Disappoints In Losing 4-1 to Harvard

In a match that was played in the pouring rain on Sunday, the Princeton men's soccer team fell 4-1 to Ivy League rival Harvard.

The Tigers, who were expected to be in the running for another shot at the NCAA Tournament, have not come up big this year, particularly in the Ivy League, where they are 2-2.

Harvard took an early lead in the first half, out-hustling the Tigers and playing tight defense. The first goal came at 28:43 on a right-to-left cross in the goal box.

The Crimson scored again in the first half, beating Princeton keeper Stuart Reynolds, who was left all alone to face a breakaway.

In the second half, Harvard scored on another breakaway goal at 52:21, and added a fourth on a 15-yard bullet at 78:40.

Princeton was spared the ignominy of a shutout, literally at the last minute, when freshman Jamie Adams headed a corner kick into the net at 89:10.

Harvard was whistled for 19 fouls in the game, including one red and four yellow cards.

Princeton Field Hockey Wins NCAA Tourney Bid

With a 3-0 shutout of Harvard on Saturday, the Princeton University field hockey team improved their record to 11-1 overall and 5-0 in the Ivy League. Their perfect League record assures them of a berth in the upcoming NCAA Tournament.

Out for seven games due to a knee injury, senior Jen Babik announced her return to action at 2:25 into the match, scoring on a pass from senior Amory Rowe.

The Tigers did not score again until late in the second half, when Amy MacFarlane took a pass from senior Liz Fagan at the 57:00 mark and put it in the Harvard goal.

Fagan registered her second assist of the game only a few minutes later, feeding junior Skye Delano-Nuttall at 66:37 for the game's final score.

Goalkeeper Liz Hill needed to make only five saves for her sixth shutout of the year, as her teammates outshot Harvard 26-10.

Princeton will travel to Virginia this week to face some of the toughest competition of the year. They play the Cavaliers on Wednesday evening, and line up against the number-three team in the nation, James Madison, on Friday.

The squad will return home for their final regular-season contest of the year, against Penn. at 3 p.m. on Tuesday.

GETTING THE JOB DONE: Senior Flo Lam, playing at third singles, has been the most consistent winner for the Princeton Day girls' tennis team this fall. She was the only winner in the Panthers' 4-1 loss to Hun last Friday. PDS will play in the Prep B Tournament this week.

PDS Girls' Soccer Seeded 1st in Prep Tournament

The Princeton Day girls' soccer team, which currently sports a 13-1-1 mark, has gained the top seed in the Prep B soccer tournament, and barring an upset of gargantuan proportions will have wrapped up the championship 10 days hence.

The Panthers' only real competition in the tournament, Blair, which played PDS to a 1-1 tie last Friday, has moved up to the Prep A Tournament. PDS and Blair shared the Prep B crown last year, playing to a tie in the championship game.

PDS could have played in the "A" Division, but would have faced much tougher competition. Staying on the "B" level virtually guarantees the Panthers will have a new banner to hang from the rafters. Who could argue with that?

In the quarterfinal round this Friday, the Blue and White will play the winner of the Ranney-St. Mary's Hall contest. At this point St. Mary's Hall, which PDS crushed 10-0 on Monday, may decide to let Ranney have the honor of playing the Panthers. Gill St. Bernard's is seeded second, and Villa Walsh, third, PDS has beaten both by three goals.

The 4-1 victory over Villa Walsh last Wednesday was achieved with a strong second half. PDS led just 1-0, on a goal by DeCore, assisted by Sternberg, in the first half, but the home team managed to tie the contest early in the second.

At that point, PDS turned it on and scored the next three goals. Suzanne Caruso tallied, assisted by Kari Zarzeeki, to break the deadlock and DeCore and Sternberg added insurance tallies.

Against St. Mary's, DeCore had a hat trick and Emily Churchill added a pair to lead the rout. Others scoring included Alexa Faigen, Kari Zarzeeki and Jesse Collins. PDS outshot the visitors, 25 to one.

PDS Football Is Shut Out By Wilmington Friends

It was deja vu all over again for the Princeton Day football team, which found itself shut out for the fourth time this season last Saturday afternoon.

The offense that had materialized in a 27-3 win against Wardlaw the previous week disappeared in a 21-0 blanking by Wilmington Friends School. The Panthers are now, 2-4, and must win their final two games to avoid a losing season.

That will be a tall order, because up next is Morristown-Beard, which rang up five consecutive victories before losing to Pennington, 42-0, this past weekend. PDS will face Mo-Beard under the lights at the Notre Dame High School field this Friday at 7:30. The season will end the following Saturday against Newark Academy, currently 2-4.

Neither PDS nor Wilmington could get much offense going in the first half, which ended in a scoreless duel. But in the third period, the home team tallied on a 13-yard pass that came on a fourth-and-two play.

In the fourth period, WF, which ran its record to 3-3, sealed the outcome with a pair of touchdown runs. The first was a 38-yard off-tackle jaunt; the second, around end from 17 yards out.

Senior tackle Myong Lee stood out defensively for PDS with 14 tackles, six for losses.

PDS Boys' Soccer Ousted From Prep Tournament

The Princeton Day boys' soccer team lost to Saddle River, 2-1, Monday, and found itself knocked out of the Prep B Tournament in the quarterfinal round.

The Panthers, whose record fell to 6-7-1, will have a chance to finish their season on the positive side of the .500 mark with a pair of contests this week against Pennington on Wednesday and St. Mary's Hall on Saturday.

Saddle River had already beaten the Blue and White, 3-1, in their first meeting two weeks ago, and did so again with a second half goal that broke a 1-1 tie. Kevin Gallagher gave the Blue and White a 1-0 lead early in the first half, but SR came back to tie the score before the intermission. PDS was outshot 28 to nine, but goalie David Levin kept the Panthers close with 18 saves.

Princeton Day had struggled on its own field in an out-of-pocket contest against Ranney last Thursday, but finally managed to come away with a 1-0 victory, thanks to Gallagher. Despite 29 shots on net to just two for the visitors, PDS could manage just one goal. That came on a breakaway by Gallagher with 25:55 remaining in the first half.

In other action, the Panthers played Allentown High last Saturday, but were blanked 2-0. The hosts scored a goal in each half, while outshooting PDS, 25 to 10.

A week ago Tuesday, the Panthers took out the frustration of three previous losses, during which they scored a total of two goals, on a 3-11 Rutgers Prep team. When the game ended, PDS had scored three times in each half and blanked the Argonauts for a 6-0 triumph.

Freshman Brett Johnson led the way with a goal and a pair of assists. Sophomore Wes Willard added a goal and an assist. Other goals were scored by Kevin Gallagher, Matt Zarzecki, Roy Lynam and Jeff Goldenson. PDS outshot the visitors, 27-7.

PDS Field Hockey Team Sixth in Prep A Seedings

The Princeton Day field hockey team has been seeded sixth in the Prep A tournament, which will begin this Thursday.

D'Altrui Leads PDS In Field Hockey Win

Princeton Day junior Jesse D'Altrui did it all on Monday, leading the Panther field hockey team to a 3-2 triumph over Morris-town-Beard. Goals are hard to come by in field hockey, hat tricks are a rarity, but D'Altrui collected one in a superb effort.

D'Altrui's two goals in the first half gave the Blue and White a 2-1 lead at the intermission. But the home team rallied to tie the contest at 2-2 in the second half.

With time running out, PDS had a penalty corner, and in the midst of a scramble in front of the net, D'Altrui got off a shot that deflected off the goalie's pads and went in. Her winning goal came with just 1:20 left.

The tally was D'Altrui's 11th of the season, tops on the team.

GETTING AHEAD OF THE COMPETITION: Matt Zarzecki heads the ball in the Prep B tournament game against Ranney last Thursday. The Panthers only scored once, but that was enough for the win.

The Panthers will face third-seeded Blair on the road in the quarterfinal round and, if successful there, would meet the winner of the Peddie/Lawrenceville game on November 1. Blair managed to squeak by PDS, 1-0, in double overtime, when the two met for the first time a month ago.

This past week the Panthers were matched against three of their area rivals, Stuart, Lawrenceville and Princeton Day, and ended with an 0-1-2 mark to run their season's record to 6-5-2.

Their most impressive performance came against defending Prep B champion Stuart, which sported an 11-2-2 mark coming into the contest. The Tartans already owned victories over Lawrenceville and Hopewell Valley High.

The first half ended in a scoreless tie. In the second half, Stuart scored first on its first, last and only shot of the game. The Panthers got off nine shots in all, and seemed headed for another frustrating loss until the closing minutes. With 3:50 left in regulation, Jesse D'Altrui tallied to tie the score, and two overtime periods with seven players per side could not break the deadlock.

Unfortunately, the Blue and White could not build on that performance 24 hours later against Lawrenceville. A 2-0 loser to the Larries in the first round of the MCT just four days before, PDS fell, 3-1, this time. The visitors wasted no time claiming a 3-0 lead in the first half, effectively sealing the outcome early.

Nicole Svoboda managed to avert another shutout when she scored in the second half on one of only two shots by PDS in the entire game.

On Friday against Princeton High, D'Altrui led PDS into an early 1-0 lift, but Amanda Willard tied up the contest at 1-1 with four minutes left in the half. The final 25 minutes was a scoreless deadlock. PDS outshot the home team 12-3, but to no avail.

Stuart Field Hockey Top Seed in Prep B

It was a challenging week for the Stuart field hockey team as four starting players, including both co-captains, were left sitting on the bench due to injuries. Following a 1-1 double-overtime tie with Princeton Day School (PDS) and a 1-0 overtime loss to Hun in the semifinals of the Mercer County Tournament, the when she slammed home a cross from Courtney Haddock. With 3:50 on the clock, PDS knotted the score, forcing a 10-minute overtime. Following a scoreless overtime period, the two tired squads returned to the field for a second futile 10-minute attempt to determine a winner. Tartan goalie Gia Fruscione made eight saves to stave off the PDS offense.

Due to injuries, varsity starters Fruscione, Patrice O'Leary and co-captains Sophie de Lignerolles and Caiti Higgins were all on the sidelines when Hun scored at 5:12 in overtime to win, 1-0. Sarah Reid made 12 saves in an outstanding debut as backup goalie. Sophomore Kathleen Long played her first varsity game ever.

"This week, our team goal is to get healthy," said Bruvik. "We're hoping to be at peak strength for the November 3 state championships."

Coach Bruvik's team travels to Notre Dame on Wednesday to play a game previously rained out. The Prep B Tournament begins on Tuesday for the top-seeded

THE NEW 960 FROM VOLVO.

One glance at the new Volvo 960 reveals two things: First, our engineers are as obsessive as ever. Second, they've loosened up considerably.

It's almost as if Volvo engineers allowed Nordic winds to shape the body — the entire car sculpted to reveal rounder, more graceful lines. While the fit and finish reveal the legendary craftsmanship that you're come to expect.

And you'll find no effort has been spared on the car that lies beneath this body. A totally new suspension and revamped engine with more low-end torque offer impressive performance. While a gracefully appointed interior offers an array of luxury features standard, including power windows, 8 way power adjustable front seats, leather-faced seats and a 100-watt "Premium Sound" cassette stereo. All for only $29,900. Which just goes to show that every so often a predictable Swede can throw you a curve.*

Tartans, who will host No. 4 Wardlaw-Hartridge at 2:30 p.m. in a semifinal matchup. Hun will host Morristown-Beard in the other semifinal, also at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday. The winners will meet in the Prep B State Championship game on November 3 at 3 p.m. on Lawrenceville School's fields.

Stuart Tennis Team Wins Three Straight

The Stuart tennis team improved its record to 7-6 by picking up solid victories over McCorristin High School, 4-1; Pennington School, 3 1/2-1 1/2; and Wardlaw-Hartridge, 5-0.

Against McCorristin, Sara Burchell, at No. 1 singles, dispatched Anjelica Manal, 6-4, 6-4. Denise Ramzy, who won her first set at No. 2 singles, eventually lost to Sandy Walker after a lengthy battle, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. Janet Marsicano took No. 3 singles for Stuart when she downed Carolyn Bencivengo, 6-2, 6-3. Both Tartan doubles teams were winners. At No. 1, Jabeen Obaray and Justyna Piasecka bettered Colleen Powell and Linda Hollo, 7-6 (7-2 tiebreaker), 6-2. At No. 2, Ginger Vroom and Vanessa Chen defeated Jenn Kuti and Michelle Brucks, 6-0, 6-2.

Against Pennington, Burchell dropped her match to Juliana Babejoza, 6-2, 6-0. Ramzy topped Elisabete Garazille, 6-3, 6-3. Marsicano split a match cut short by darkness with Sonya Scheser. Marsicano took the first set, 7-6 (7-3 tiebreaker), but Scheser won the next, 7-6 (7-5 tiebreaker). Each girl was awarded half a point. Both doubles teams were again victorious. Obaray and Piasecka topped Courtney Wald and Amy Wilder, 6-2, 1-6, 6-3, Vroom and Chen stopped Caryn Jacobs and Ricki Shulman, 6-1, 6-3.

Stuart spoiled the homecoming festivities at Wardlaw-Hartridge when the Tartans won, 5-0. Burchell took over Paige Thompson, 6-2, 6-2. Marsicano downed Rita Sahni 6-2, 6-2. Justyna Piasecka defeated Melanie Laird, 6-1, 6-4. After losing the first set at doubles, Denise Ramzy and Vanessa Chen came back to beat Dana Jacober and Whitney Kent, 5-7, 6-3, 6-0. Anne-Sybil Bragadir and Janen Obaray easily won over Michelle Dzurisson and Collette DeSantis, 6-1, 6-2.

"I'm very proud of all the girls," said coach Robin McCarthy. "It's great to be above the .500 mark as we go into the Prep B Tournament on Wednesday. Ginger and Vanessa should receive a good seed in the No. 2 doubles flight."

Hun Hockey Tops Stuart For Shot at Mercer Title

Continuing their stride toward .500 last Tuesday, Hun field hockey topped St. Elizabeth's 5-2 behind super offensive efforts from Steph Shaffer and Leah Bills.

The Raiders took a 3-1 first half lead, and followed up with a pair of insurance goals in the second half.

Shaffer ended with a hat trick on the day, and Bills rounded out the Raider scoring with two goals of her own. In the cage, Meris Burton stopped nine shots.

The Raiders battled Nottingham to a 1-1 tie on Thursday. Leah Bills gave Hun a 1-0 lead in the first half, but the Raiders couldn't score again.

The North Stars snuck one past Burton, who had 11 saves on the day.

Hun's biggest win of the year came on Saturday, when they beat Stuart 1-0 in overtime to advance to the final round of Mercer County Tournament play.

Facing a Stuart team plagued by injuries, the Raiders fought their way to a 0-0 tie at the end of regulation. With a little less than five minutes remaining in the first overtime period, Cori Hendon found the back of the cage on a corner, with an assist from Bills.

Hun outshot the Tartans 13-7, and Burton made six saves.

The Raiders will play Lawrenceville for the Mercer County championship on Saturday.

State Tournament competition began on Tuesday, and the Raiders will face Ewing on Friday, in a regular season match.

Pair of Soccer Losses Sours Hun Boys' Week

The Raiders were shelled by a visiting St. Benedict's team on Monday, falling 7-0. The Raiders were outshot 34-2 in the contest.

Hun goalkeeper Steve Welham made 21 saves on the afternoon, but couldn't hold back the tide.

Hun was outlasted by Peddie on Saturday. After taking a 1-0 first half lead on a Brian Bair goal, the Raiders were unable to strike again.

Peddie, on the other hand, netted two in the second half, taking the lead and the win. In goal, Welham was good for 11 saves.

It was Welham who helped the Raiders overcome Pennington, with strong play at both ends of the field. Starting the game in goal, Welham stopped ten shots. But Pennington scored twice, once in the first half, and once at the outset of the second, while the Raider offense seemed unable to get the ball into the goal.

In an effort to inject some life into the Hun offense, coach Rob Myslik pulled Welham from the goal and inserted him at center forward. The risky move paid big dividends.

Less than three minutes after the change, Tomioka headed the ball into the net on a Mike Geiger throw-in to make the score 2-1. With 23:58 remaining, Welham tapped in a pass from Chris White, tying the score at 2-2.

Walker Wright was given the opportunity to score the game-winner on a penalty shot with two minutes remaining, and the team's leading scorer did not disappoint, giving Hun a 3-2 win.

Hun will visit the Hill School on Wednesday, and Hamilton on Saturday. The Prep State Tournament is slated to begin on Monday.

Hun Tennis on Autopilot: Four Additional Wins

The Raiders continued to cruise through the remainder of their regular season tennis matches this week with four relatively easy victories. The fourth, a 5-0 destruction of Lawrence, marked coach Joan Nuse's 100th career victory in scholastic tennis.

Hun topped Notre Dame 4-1 last Tuesday, with wins everywhere but the second doubles slot. Although some of the matches were yawners, the Irish gave the Raiders some problems in third singles and doubles.

In singles, Bonner won 6-0, 6-0; Lawton won 6-0, 6-1; and Russo won 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

Giller and Tan won 3-6, 6-4, 6-1 in first doubles. In second doubles, McNamara and Schwartz fell 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

Against PDS on Friday, the Raiders won 4-1. Bonner and Lawton won in straight sets, Bonner without losing a game. Princeton Day's Flo Lam took third singles from Jenn Russo, 6-2, 6-1.

Giller/Tan, and McNamara/Schwartz won in straight sets.

Peddie presented no problem on Saturday, as the Raiders notched their 11th victory of the season.

Bonner won Love, Love. Lawton and Russo won 6-2, 6-0 and 6-0, 6-3, respectively.

Giller and Tan won 6-4, 6-4. In second doubles, Jennie Breo stepped in for Schwartz, but the result was typical, as she and McNamara cruised to a 6-0, 6-4 win.

Against Lawrence on Monday, the cast and plot were the same as they had been against Peddie. Everybody won in straight sets in Hun's eighth consecutive victory. The Raiders are now 12-3 on the year.

Hun played Stuart on Tuesday, too late for this issue. Later this week, they will play Stuart and Hopewell. Squeezed into this already heavy schedule will be the opening round of the State Prep "B" tournament, on Wednesday.

Hun Stomps Peddie 24-6 In Long's 150th Victory

The Raider football team crushed Peddie 24-6 on Saturday, in a game that was effectively finished in the first half.

The win was the 150th of Hun coach Bill Long's career. He started coaching at the Pennington School in 1972, and after amassing a long string of successful seasons there, he took over the Hun program in 1988, with similar results.

On Saturday, his 1994 Hun squad ran up a 24-6 halftime lead over Peddie, and then shifted into low gear for the remainder of the afternoon. Not that it mattered; Peddie was stuck in low for the whole game, managing only six total points.

The Raiders scored on their first play from scrimmage, when Josh Schottland ran the ball 25 yards for the touchdown. He then carried the ball into the end zone for the two point conversion.

Jordan Younger was next for the Raiders, rolling 35 yards for a TD of his own. Schottland again ran for the two-point conversion.

Peddie scored in the second quarter, but failed on the conversion, making the score 16-6.

Shortly thereafter, it was Schottland again. The senior running back took the ball 14 yards for the score and added the obligatory two on the conversion.

Both teams were silent in the second half, and the game ended with the score 24-6.

Hun was dominant on the ground; Schottland ran for 172 yards on 12 carries, Younger ran for 93 on five carries, and Rob Hughes picked up 82 yards.

Steve Welham

Watching Welham stand at the eighteen-yard line and bellow instructions to his teammates at a decibel level that would humble Stentor, one might be tempted to wonder why, if he knows so much about it, he doesn't just go upfield and score some goals himself.

Anyone who had been so tempted a week ago Tuesday would have had their question answered thus: he doesn't go upfield, because he's the goalie; and that's the only reason. Take off the goalkeeper's shirt, and things are a little different.

Normally, Welham seems quite content in goal. An intense competitor, the senior All-Prep keeper Against local rival Pennington Prep though, the normally potent Hun offense was sputtering. Down 2-0 in the second half, coach Rob Myslik pulled Welham from the goal and placed him at center forward. He seemed to be all the spark that the Raiders needed. Minutes after his arrival, Ryosuke Tomioka scored Hun's first goal. Shortly thereafter, Welham tied the score with a goal of his own on an assist by Walker Wright. Wright iced the 3-2 Hun win with a penalty kick in the final minutes.

Whichever end of the field Welham is on, he will be a key factor in Hun's effort to make some noise in the upcoming Prep state tournament.

PEOPLE In the News

Mortimer J. O'Shea, Dogwood Hill, has been elected to the board of directors for the Tri-County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. O'Shea is the recently appointed chairman and CEO of The Ramapo Bank and the president and chief executive officer of the bank's holding company, Ramapo Financial Corporation.

Mr. O'Shea has been involved in numerous civic organizations, serving on the local boards of the United Way, Boy Scouts of America, the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation, and the Somerville Rotary, among others.

A graduate of Fordham University, with an M.B.A. in finance from St. John's University, Mr. O'Shea has more than 20 years of experience in banking and finance.

Jordan McEntyre, son of John and Marilyn McEntyre, Cleveland Lane, entered Carleton College this fall. He is a graduate of Berkeley (Calif.) High School.

Herald Pharmaceutical, Inc., Richmond, Va., has announced the promotion of Todd A. Bakewell, formerly of Princeton, to president and chief executive officer.

In February 1993, he joined Herald Pharmaceutical as executive vice president.

Douglas Bougher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bougher of Skillman, a junior, is a member of the Alfred University Honors Program.

The honors program is designed to challenge exceptional students by way of participation in seminars and off campus activities.

Four area residents have begun their first year at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt.

They are Kathryn S. Gordon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David S. Gordon of Princeton; David L. Wilfrid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilfrid of Princeton; Michole A. Biancosino, daughter of Dr. Anthony J. Biancosino of Princeton and Beth Ann Pirolli of Tullytown, Pa.; and Mercedes A. Lorenzo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.A. Lorenzo of Skillman.

Coldwell Banker Schlott Realtors, Princeton, has announced that Sharon Snyder has joined its staff as a full-time real estate agent. A certified appraiser, she operated her own business for 12 years.

Ms. Snyder has completed Coldwell Banker Schlott's comprehensive training program.

Bulletin Notes

The Gospel Fellowship Church of Plainsboro will hold its Holiday Boutique of Crafts every Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., starting Thursday, November 3, and continuing through December 3.

Since the beginning of the Holiday Boutique seven years ago, this show has developed a following from shoppers and crafters alike. The Boutique strives to maintain a high quality of merchandise. There are always new and imaginative crafters joining, while at the same time those who have participated from the beginning continue to supply their very best, bringing the total of participating crafters to more than 150.

Located at 626 Plainsboro Road across from the Rescue Squad, the crafts boutique is housed in one of the oldest farmhouses in Plainsboro. Originally part of the Britton homestead, the property was purchased in 1985 by the Gospel Fellowship Church, whose pastors and members have recently completed the rebuilding of the former potato barn into a chapel and outreach center for Plainsboro and surrounding communities.

In addition to the crafts, there will be a photo studio for those who would like to have a portrait taken in time for holiday gift-giving. Reservations for portrait sittings may be made at the checkout register.

There is no admission fee. For more information, call 799-1945 or 799-2304.

Trinity Church will hold a "Fun, Furniture and Furs"

Choral Evensong

Trinity Church presents Choral Evensong services, in the style of English Cathedral choirs, on the first Sunday of every month at 4:30 p.m., October through June. The service is almost wholly based on the Bible, with readings, psalms and anthems often set to music.

On November 6, the Evensong service will feature soloist Charles Sundquist, director of music at Princeton High School, who will play a prelude of French organ music, beginning at 4:10. Trinity's choir of men, boys and girls will sing music by English composers Henry Purcell, Thomas Tallis, Sir Edward Bairstow and T. Tertius Noble. The choir will be led by John Bertalot, Trinity's director of music, and accompanied by Scott Dettra, the church's new assistant organist. An informal reception follows afterwards for the congregation and musicians.

Rummage Sale Saturday from 9 to 4 in Pierce Hall, 33 Mercer Street.

The sale will be limited to furniture, furs, a limited selection of winter sporting equipment and an upright grand piano. There will be no clothing, toys or kitchen wares.

Gloria Frederick, moderator of the Presbytery of New Brunswick, will deliver the sermon Sunday during the 11 a.m. service at Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, 124 Witherspoon Street.

Music will be provided by the Men's Chorus. The Rev. John E. White is pastor, the telephone number is 924-1666.

Derek Fields, a software developer on contract to Bellcore, the research and development arm of the telephone companies, will discuss "Jewish Resources on the Internet" Sunday, November 6, at 7:30 in the Adult Library of the Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street.

The session will provide an overview of mailing lists, discussion groups, databases and Jewish services as well as information on getting connected to the Internet. Computer literacy is not a pre-requisite.

For more information call 921-0100.

CREED will hold its annual conference Saturday, November 5, from 9 to 4:30 at Princeton Theological Seminary. Gleb Yakunin of the House of Deputies, or Duma, in Moscow, will speak on Spiritual Renewal. Mr. Yakunin is a champion of religious and political freedom. His work on behalf of religious freedom cost him five years of hard labor camps and five years of exile. He was defrocked by Patriarch Alexy II last February.

Janet Haines, one of seven teachers from Pennsylvania who volunteered their summer vacation to work in Transylvania with local teachers to teach Romanian children the English language and the history of western democracy, will also address the conference, the theme of which is Spiritual Renewal.

Registration is $30 and may be made by calling 497-0224, or in person at 787 Princeton Kingston Road.

Windsor Jewish Singles (ages 45 and up) will have dinner Sunday, November 6, at Lee's Castle, Plainsboro. Reservations are required. Call 448-3899 or 443-4142.

This Sunday is pulpit exchange Sunday at The Unitarian Church of Princeton.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas Mikelson, minister, First Parish (Unitarian Universalist) of Cambridge, Mass., will preach at the 9:15 and 11:15 services. His topic is "The Limits of Diversity."

Music will be provided by the Adult Choir. Church School will be held during both services.

Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs presents

A Perspective from Germany The Economy after Unification and a Look at the Progress of European Integration

a lecture by Helmut Schlesinger

Retired President of Germany's Deutsche Bundesbank

Schlesinger is the John Foster Dulles Visiting Professor at the Woodrow Wilson School during the fall semester. He is teaching a course on "The European Union: Economic Issues" with Paul Volcker, former chair of the Federal Reserve System, former president of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, and the Woodrow Wilson School's Class of 1951 Professor of International Political Economy and professor of international affairs. Their course considers a variety of economic questions arising in the effort to integrate Europe, including complications and differing perspectives of individual countries and an intensive examination of domestic and international monetary exchange rate policies.

Outstanding among the prominent homes in western Princeton, this handsome house, though European in design and ambiance, was built using fieldstone quarried in New Jersey. A lover of metal, the original owner brought in a forge to create the ironwork found throughout. Iron gates give access through the stone walls that completely enclose this secluded and beautifully landscaped site. A large brick courtyard introduces the entrance with its ornamental ironwork. The two-story foyer opens to a banquet-sized dining room with three French doors to the garden, a large kitchen with butler's pantry and a back hall with three bedrooms and a bath. Back stairs are accented by blue Swiss tiles. A few steps down — a magnificent library with fireplace, mahogany beams, and bookshelves capped with dentil detailing. A few steps up — a spectacular Great Room with soaring arches in the barrel vaulted ceiling and a dramatic brass-clad chimney. On the second floor, a suite with sitting room, bedroom and bath, a second bedroom and bath, and a magnificent master suite with sitting room, bedroom, bath and a huge studio with fireplace and a wall of windows overlooking the beautiful grounds. On the third floor — a guest suite. The stone carriage house is detailed by iron railings with silhouettes of the builder's children. They lead to a delightful 2-bedroom (one with arched fireplace), 2-story apartment. The ground floor of the Carriage House also accommodates the gardener's room and five cars. Between the carriage house and the original forge is a secluded pocket garden. In all, a wonderful home for those who would appreciate and enjoy the fine design, construction, custom details and charm of this very distinctive property.

Rosedale House — once the master house of a luxurious 57 acre estate. Now a magnificent stone Colonial secluded by three and a half acres of majestic trees. Built on a gentle hill; five terraces with formal gardens originally sloped to a lake formed by two streams. Designed by Daisy Gummere, the house was completed in 1912 and the guest book contained the names of many famous people. Later Mrs. Gummere rented the house to a girls finishing school, "Four Seasons", and then to "Miss Gilmer's Preparatory School". It has since been a gracious home for a few families and a client's guest house. A handsome portico with towering columns shelters the impressive entrance. A marble floor vestibule opens to a breathtaking "Great Hall" whose elegance and splendid appointments set the tone for the entire house. Additional living areas include a living room, sitting room and library. A solarium adjoins the formal dining room. A renovated kitchen is superb with a spacious breakfast area. The handsome stairway leads to a windowed mezzanine now graced by red velvet hangings and love seats. On second floor, the master suite with bedroom, sitting room, dressing room, "his" and "hers" baths and doors to a sleeping porch. Another suite includes a bedroom, sitting room and bath. Two other bedrooms share a bath. On third floor a luxurious apartment with living room, family room, library, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms and 2 baths. In all — about 8000 sq. ft. of living space and innumerable artistic details give us a delightful reminder of a pleasant life-style enjoyed by a few in Princeton's early days.

The panoramic views from every window of this dramatic cedar shingle Contemporary is reminiscent of Colorado. The beautiful and private deck enclosing the 50' free-form swimming pool gives a feeling of a southern resort. The light-filled and high-ceilinged living spaces, the varied bedroom levels which create privacy, and the desirable Hopewell location all combine to create a sophisticated house where you can "vacation at home".

GREEN BARN FARM

This Federal country house circa 1806 on nine beautiful acres has just been renovated and its country elegance expanded. A gracious example of early American architecture, the house has five working fireplaces, wide floor boards and enjoys wonderful views from every window. The center hall with spacious study on the right, formal dining room on the left leads to the new magnificent windowed living room opening to a brick terrace. A sparkling white live-in kitchen includes a delightful sitting area. The spectacular new master bedroom suite with soaring ceiling boasts his and her baths, a large private loft and doors that lead to a balcony and down to the pool. A stone spring house and a crisp barn are surrounded by ageless trees and meadows creating a perfect setting for peaceful living in Hopewell.
